Highway Death Pace Slackens

Count Drops Behind Record Rate

By The Associated Press

Traffic	192

Safety officials began to look on the bright side Sunday when, for the first time this three-day Memorial holiday weekend, the traffic death toll dropped behind the pace of record statistics rolled up two years ago.

"The pace has slackened," a National Safety Council spokesman said, "to the point where there's good reason to believe we can stay below the 1958 figures—that is, if drivers continue to show good sense."

Over the comparable 1958 Memorial weekend, the most recent which also lasted 78 hours, a record 371 persons met death on the highways.

Well into the second half of this year's holiday period, reports of fatalities on an hourly basis kept ahead of the 1958 figures. As each hour passed, an average of nearly four highway deaths was ticked off. The spokesman commented: "There is only one sane way to slow it down and that is for every driver to drive as his common sense tells him to drive."

Before the traditional weekend kick-off to the annual vacation season got under way, at 6 p.m. Friday, the council estimated 375 lives could be lost by the end of the period, midnight Monday. It noted that at one point or another over the holiday, nearly all of the nation's 73 million automobiles would be on the move.

For comparative purposes The Associated Press ran a 78-hour nonholiday survey of traffic deaths from 6 p.m. Friday, May 13, until midnight Monday, May 16. The results showed 330 traffic deaths, 20 more than the council estimated for a typical nonholiday period at this time of the year.

Last year, when the Memorial weekend was a two-day affair, 310 lives were lost in traffic.

In other categories of memorial holiday weekend fatalities this year, boating accidents, drownings and miscellaneous accidents likewise took their destructive toll.

Rhee Leaves Korea, Flies To Honolulu

Fallen Leader Seen Living Rest Of Days In American Exile

SEOUL (UPI) — Political foes said good riddance to former President Syngman Rhee Sunday with charges he was a dictator and predictions that he would spend the rest of his days in American exile.

There were few public tears for the 85-year-old fallen leader whose 12 years in power spanned the formation of the Republic of Korea. Members of the Democratic Party, which had been Rhee's opposition, charged he was "escaping," and a number of Democrats demanded punishment for those who helped Rhee and his Austrian-born wife leave the country.

The government of acting President Hugh Chung was expected to come under fire in the National Assembly for permitting the former president to leave.

Chang Demands Explanation

Rhee and his 56-year-old wife, Francesca, took with them four suitcases and two small overnight bags. The baggage was checked by a customs officer.

Former Vice President John M. Chang, whose defeat in a rigged election last March by Rhee candidate Lee Ki-Poong caused the student riots that brought Rhee's downfall, demanded an explanation from the caretaker government.

Rhee flew off to Honolulu with charges mushrooming that he had misused public funds.

Vice-finance Minister Kim Yong Kap charged in the National Assembly Saturday that, "Dr. Rhee misappropriated $19,900,000 during his 12-year rule. I can show details if they are asked for."

Democratic Party Floor Leader Kim Yi Taik said Rhee's departure was "the natural course for a dictator to take."

To "Take A Rest"

Only a handful of people saw Rhee off. Among them was acting President Hugh, who said the Rhees were going to "take a rest."

The U. S. Embassy was said to have played part in arranging the trip. The Rhees were given standard passports, with visas good for three months.

But most opposition leaders said they believed Rhee, whose health has been failing, would never come home again.

Rhee apparently decided himself to leave. There was no pressure on him, and no mention of even calling him in for questioning about irregularities during the regime of his Liberal Party.

Three Die In Crash At Coraopolis, Pa.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An auto sideswiped a parked car and smashed into a bridge abutment in nearby Coraopolis late Saturday night, killing three men.

Fatally injured were Andrew Burton, 38, the driver of the car, and passengers Saul Davis, 29, and William Wells, 57, all of Coraopolis.

Coraopolis is 20 miles north-west of Pittsburgh.

Britain Might Share A-Data With France

LONDON (AP)—Britain was reported Sunday to be preparing to share atomic secrets with France.

There were suggestions that U. S. atomic information might also be involved. A British-American treaty was signed last year to cut out duplication of atomic research and much knowledge has already been pooled by the two Western partners.

There was no official confirmation of the move to deal in the French, but the Sunday Express said details of an agreement are already being worked out in London, Paris and Washington.

"It will give President de Gaulle a complete dossier on atomic know-how," said the Express.

The newspaper added that H-bomb secrets and other thermonuclear developments would be excluded from any agreement, but that France would be "saved several years" work on research and will save several million pounds.

The Sunday Dispatch carried a similar story and said the French should be enabled "to evolve their own H-bomb more quickly."

Under the British-American agreement, U. S. atomic information is restricted to use by Britain. Washington approval would be necessary before the field was widened.

Sophia Loren's Jewels Stolen

ELSTREE, England (UPI) — Burglars broke into the hotel bedroom of Italian film beauty Sophia Loren and stole a half million dollars worth of jewels from a bureau drawer, police reported Sunday. They said it was one of Britain's biggest jewel thefts.

Scotland Yard sent detectives to question c. ployes at the hotel club where the Italian star was staying. The jewels, including a $40,000 sapphire necklace and two other diamond, sapphire and ruby necklaces and other pieces, apparently were stolen while Sophia and her husband, Italian Count Carlo Ponti were downstairs in a club lounge.

Photos Indicate Mystery Object Old Shipwreck

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Television pictures indicate a mysterious object on the ocean floor is the wreckage of a barge, Capt. Sam Loomis, Key West naval base chief of staff, said Sunday.

Loomis said the wreckage is encrusted with coral, indicating it has been there a long time. The officer said first pictures were of poor quality, but more have been taken and will be processed Sunday.

Naval sonar equipment on a minesweeper detected the object in 430 feet of water 25 miles southeast of the American Shoals light.

When the object was first discovered there was speculation it might be a submarine, but Loomis is knocked down that theory. "The object is not a submarine," he said.

SEATO Talks Set Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Top statesmen from four continents began gathering here Sunday to survey how to keep peace in the world after the failure of the summit conference.

Scheduled to attend the meeting, which opens Tuesday, were the prime ministers of Australia and New Zealand, and the foreign ministers of Great Britain, France, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand and the United States.

They are coming here for the sixth conference of the SEATO alliance which aims to save Southeast Asia from Communist subversion or open attacks.

Whether Communist China will now unleash new adventures in the southeastern area was the main topic for discussion, especially with reports of new threat, even Communist infiltration in Laos, South Viet Nam and the possibility of renewed assaults on Quemoy or Matsu.

But the Europeans in the conference are expected to consult with Secretary of State Christian Herter also about the outlook in Europe after the Soviets refused to confer at the summit in Paris except on their own terms.

Miss Germany Elected

BADEN-BADEN, Germany (AP) — Ingrid Helgard Moeckel, an 18-year-old music student, was elected Miss Germany 1960 Sunday. She barely speaks German since she spent most of her life in New Zealand. Blonde, blue-eyed Miss Moeckel is 5 feet 10 and the customary measurements are 34-22½-36.

Morton Given Political Boost By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said Sunday that if he isn't the GOP vice presidential nominee he would like to see the honor go to Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton.

Goldwater said he would accept the post if it was offered but that he didn't think it would be. For one thing, he said his state of Arizona joins California, the home state of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the probable GOP presidential candidate.

He said on a radio program (Mutual-Reporters Roundup) the proximity of the two states, tucked away in the southwest corner of the country, would hurt him some but that there were "other factors" too. He did not elaborate on them.

Asked who would make the strongest GOP vice presidential candidate, he named Morton. He said the GOP chairman and Kentucky senator comes from "a state which is correct geographically—it's neither deep south or north, and it's neither east or west."

Also, he said, Morton "is a very effective campaigner and is very well known across the country."

Goldwater, a self-styled conservative, said he believes Adlai E. Stevenson will be the Democratic presidential nominee for the third time.

As senatorial campaign chairman, Goldwater said it's arithmetically impossible for the GOP to regain control of the Senate. But he said "I believe we can pick up from two to four seats," in Wyoming, West Virginia, Michigan and possibly Montana.

"The Republicans can retake" the House, he added, but "I'd have to admit it has its problems" to have Congress controlled by different political parties.

Eisenhower Prays For U.S. War Dead

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower prayed Sunday for America's heroic war dead. And his pastor declared, "No price is too great to be spared conquest, occupation and slavery."

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower drove through light rain from their farm to 8:30 a.m. services at the United Presbyterian Church in Gettysburg. They are spending the Memorial Day weekend at their country place.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church had designated this Sunday before Memorial Day as a day of intercession.

U.S. Doesn't Regard Nikita As Supreme Dictator Like Stalin

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Assistant Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding said Sunday the State Department regards Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as a man responsible to others in the Kremlin rather than as a Stalin-like supreme dictator.

While Khrushchev is "maybe head and shoulders" above other Soviet officials, Berding said, he still "can't go it alone." He said that during the recent summit gathering someone from Khrushchev's entourage took down every word he said in public or private interviews.

Berding's statement came as members of Congress continued debating in public the pros and cons of the Paris summit collapse and the U-2 plane incident that preceded it. There were these developments:

—Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Wis.) was asked on a radio program (Radio News Conference — News Associates, Inc.) whether President Eisenhower knew about the U-2 flight just before the summit.

He replied: "There are three stories as you know: the weather story, the President didn't know story, I believe the story that the President didn't know."

—Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) said the President always has been reluctant to go to summit conferences, but "the British pleaded with him and persuaded him to go" into the recent Paris meeting. Scott said any more summit meetings should be held only to ratify something already agreed upon.

—Sen. Joseph S. Clark (R-Pa.), appearing on a radio-TV program with Scott, said the Eisenhower administration gave Khrushchev "a wonderful opportunity" to wreck the summit meeting, although the Soviet chief probably wanted to do it anyway.

—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said during a radio interview (Mutual-Reporters Roundup) that he considered it a "mistake" for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to hold hearings on the U-2 incident and the summit collapse. He said secret information about this country's intelligence-gathering activities was bound to "leak out."

The committee, which heard Secretary of State Christian A. Herter last Friday, resumes its inquiry Tuesday with testimony from Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Transcripts of Herter's testimony were made public after they had been censored for security reasons. However, there will be no public transcript of Dulles' testimony.

The touring 76-year-old champion of East-West collaboration told a news conference here that if the Democrats win the next U.S. presidential election new policies of friendship toward the Communist world will be evolved.

"These policies will stress that there is no point in annihilating each other as, in my opinion, Socialist countries will remain Socialist and America will remain capitalist," he went on.

Quakes Still Rock Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The earth heaved and buckled for the eighth straight day Sunday in devastated southern Chile causing new panic and tumbling buildings damaged by earlier quakes and floods.

Huge U. S. Air Force C-124 Globemaster transports came in through a steady rain to land at Santiago and Puerto Montt with part of 400 tons of emergency aid being sent under "Operation Samaritan."

Some two million Chileans were homeless in the quakes that began a week ago Saturday and continued throughout the week, triggering tidal waves that wiped out whole villages.

The steady rain — this is Chile's rainy season — added to the misery.

A series of shocks Saturday night and Sunday, ranging from weak to "very strong," jarred a 150-mile area from the city of Concepcion to Angol.

There was panic, but no new casualties were reported. The toll remained at more than 6,000 persons killed during the week.

Israel Planning Showcase Trial For Eichmann

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — Israel has begun setting up a showcase trial for Adolf Eichmann, charged with sharing major responsibility for the slaughter of six million European Jews. The trial is expected to run about a year and Eichmann expects to be doomed.

Israeli authorities probably will stage the trial in a big hall in Jerusalem. It is certain to delve into the whole Hitlerite German operation of gas chambers and concentration camps.

Eichmann, whose arrest by Israeli secret service agents has been cloaked in mystery, is relaxed now, following the initial shock of his capture after 15 years on the run.

He is said to regard himself as a doomed man, but believes he has a responsibility toward history to throw light on the Nazi effort to effect "a final solution of the Jewish question."

Reports from Buenos Aires said Israeli agents picked him up in Argentina and smuggled him out on an Israeli airliner that carried delegates to Argentine Independence Day celebrations.

Although he is now depicted as one of the most infamous criminals of all time, the Israeli public knew relatively little about Eichmann or the relentless hunt for him.

Even his origins are uncertain. Nazi files show Eichmann was born in Solingen in the Ruhr area March 19, 1906. But there are persistent reports he was born a year earlier in Austria. Others say he was born near Tel Aviv.

Premier David Ben-Gurion electrified Parliament last week by announcing his capture.

Israelis are horrified by stories that have since cropped up. There's the story by Joel Brand, a wartime Jewish agency official, who testified in another court case that Eichmann offered to trade the lives of a million Jews in return for 1,000 tons of coffee and tea and 10,000 trucks from the Allies. The offer was spurned.

Then there's a report from Frankfurt by the prosecutor of the state of Hesse. He presented a letter written to SS Reich leader Heinrich Himmler in which Eichmann was commended for "de-jewifying" Austria.

Provisional Cabinet Gets On With Job

Deposed Menderes Might Be Taken To Island Navy Base

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The Turks appeared calm, matter of fact and ready to move ahead Sunday under a new government of military men and civilian specialists headed by Lt. Gen. Cemal Gursel as president-premier.

The provisional Cabinet which Gursel formed Saturday to succeed that of deposed ex-Premier Adnan Menderes, started study of the immense post-revolt problems. The Cabinet will hold its first formal meeting Monday.

The atmosphere of Ankara, headquarters of the military coup which ended Menderes' 10-year authoritarian rule Friday, was relaxed.

Small groups of students occasionally banded together for cheerful demonstrations. Broken windows and scattered files at Menderes' former Democratic party headquarters gave evidence of their earlier fervor. The military coup came after weeks of demonstrations by students for greater freedom.

In the Turkish crisis, one of the immediate problems is economic. Diplomats said there is evidence the country is nearly broke again, despite receipt of a 50-million-dollar loan from West Germany only four weeks ago.

Menderes In Custody

Another is political. Despite the apparent success of the coup, the tasks of revising the constitution and organizing free elections as promised appear formidable.

Ex-President Celal Bayer, Menderes and several members of his Cabinet were in protective custody at the Army War College here. Their wives were reported housed in Bayer's former presidential palace.

A report circulated that Menderes and some of his aides may be moved to Yassi Ada Island, a Turkish naval base in the Marmara Sea off Istanbul, to minimize the chance of any public disturbance. Military authorities declined comment.

Two members of the Menderes Cabinet—former Defense Minister Semi Ergin and former Health Minister Lufti Kirdar—were released. Also freed were 95 deputies of Menderes' Democratic party.

Not all the Democratic deputies were originally arrested, but usually reliable sources said more than 200 were detained.

Among others held were 12 generals and various federal and provincial officials. One was Alkemer Kilic, former press director for Menderes and former Turkish press attaché in Washington.

Officials of the new government did not say whether Menderes and his ministers would stand trial. Gursel himself has said there would be no punishment.

Records Checked For Misdeeds

Investigators were looking into records, however, to learn if there were any financial or other misdeeds.

Gursel is serving as his own defense minister.

Among the key personalities in the new Cabinet he named Saturday night is Selim Sarper, 61, a career diplomat and a graduate of the Istanbul law faculty, who becomes foreign minister. Sarper is a veteran of 33 years in the Turkish foreign service. Among his most recent posts were assignments to the Turkish delegation to the United Nations and to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. His last post was as secretary general of the Foreign Ministry in Ankara.

The new finance minister, 44-year-old Ekrem Alican, is a graduate of the Istanbul University College of Political Science. He studied economics in London and is known in Turkey as a brilliant economist. Once a member of the Democratic party, he left it in the mid-50s to help in the founding of the small opposition Freedom party.

Verwoerd To Air Views

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The wisest despite heavy criticism (AP)—Demands are building up here and abroad.

for Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd speaks Tuesday at Bloemfontein in Orange Free State, center of jubilee 50th anniversary celebrations of the founding of the South African union.

Verwoerd is scheduled Tuesday to make his first public speech since April 9, when a white assailant shot him in the head.

He was shot at the Johannesburg trade fair, just after making a speech which failed to answer the demands of his critics—chiefly opposition politicians, editors and businessmen—but he survived as sort of a martyr to many of his Nationalist followers.

He has publicly attributed his survival to "divine providence," enabling him to continue to lead South Africa while racial unrest on the course of racial segregation—which he deems time.

Tawes Names Three To Full Terms On SRC

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has reappointed three members of the State Roads Commission and complimented all seven members of the recently reorganized group for serving "capably and with vision."

Those named to full, four-year terms, upon expiration of their one-year terms on the commission, were:

Paul J. Bailey, 54-year-old lawyer and former state senator from Leonardtown, representing Southern Maryland; Harley P. Brinsfield, 51, Baltimore City restaurant owner, and William B. Owings, 56, who operates a farm in Howard County and also represents Baltimore and Harford counties.

Announcing the reappointments Saturday, the governor said of the SRC members:

"They have proven their ability to work well together, and I feel it is my duty to make every effort to keep them together."

"The experience of the past 12 months during which the State Roads Commission has charted a bold course toward giving Maryland a first-rate system of modern highways in the shortest possible time has reaffirmed my belief in the soundness of the reorganization plan."

The governor also announced appointment of Richard W. Case, a Baltimore attorney, to the University of Maryland Board of Regents, and he reappointed B. Herbert Brown of Baltimore to the board. Both terms are for seven years.

Dark Memory Of Tragic Day In 1956

By DAN PERKES

SIGOURNEY, Iowa (AP)—The mournful wail of a train whistle rebounded off the rolling green hills surrounding this small southeastern Iowa town.

Richard Hammes, 49, swung his head toward the direction of the sound and murmured, "They're blowing the whistle longer ever since the children."

His voice trailed off in a whisper as he remembered a day back in October, 1956, when his world almost stopped. Among all who remember on this Memorial Day, few carry tragic recollection of the weight borne by Richard Hammes.

On Oct. 26, four years ago, Mrs. Hammes was driving the family automobile toward a country schoolhouse when it collided with a Rock Island freight train at a blind crossing just northeast of their home.

In the car with her were the Hammes' eight children, 9-year-old twins Ronnie and Donnie; Karen, 8; Linda, 7; Gary, 6; Rosemary, 3; and Rickie and Vicky, 1-year-old twins.

Seven of the children were killed outright in the crash. The eighth died a short time later at the county hospital in Sigourney.

Mrs. Hammes survived one of the worst traffic accidents in Iowa history.

More than a year later, the birth of a son, Myron, helped the Hammes forget a bit about the tragic past.

They worked hard at rearing their son and building up the family business—wool, fur and hide buying and farming.

Then tragedy struck a second time.

Mrs. Hammes, 41, died last April 18 of a heart attack just before scheduled birth to what would have been the Hammes' second child of their new family.

"The doc said her heart was just too heavy with grieving about the children. It had to give," Hammes said in a faltering voice. Hammes recalls the past like a man awakening from a frightening dream and wondering whether what he dreamed about could be real.

Explained a sister, Cleo Konklin: "He doesn't understand why he should have to bear it all. We don't understand either. The answer is with God."

Hammes, his neighbors say, has been making remarkable recovery for a man whose large family, once his life, has been cut down.

"Richard is a very strong man — both mentally and physically. That helps," one neighbor remarked.

Hammes, his shock of red hair now flecked with gray, has found much of his gallantry for living in faith and prayer.

The sound of the train whistle carried over the lush hills to St.

The sun shines down brightly on Richard Hammes, but his memory is a dark one as he shoulders son Myron, 2, near their home in Sigourney, Iowa. Hammes remembers a day back in 1956 when his world almost stopped. At that time Hammes' wife, now dead, was driving family auto when it collided with a freight train near their home. In car with her were their eight children. Seven were killed outright. One died later. Myron was born after the tragedy. Later his mother died. (AP Photofax)

Students Have Scare As Trains Sideswipe

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Some Ohio high school students on their way home from Washington had a scare Saturday night when a passing freight train sideswiped their special tourist train.

Only one of the 197 students from the Cincinnati area was injured as a coal car of the freight smashed out windows while whizzing by the Baltimore and Ohio six-car passenger train.

Charlotte Dickman cut her hand and a doctor brought aboard the train at Brunswick, Md., took several stitches in it.

A B&O spokesman said the coal car on the eastbound freight buckled and smashed several windows on the passenger train. The damaged cars were replaced and the children transferred at Brunswick.

The tourist train was running about three hours late when it resumed the trip to Cincinnati.

Theologians View Espionage As Immoral But Necessary

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Spying is shady business, but it's needed for survival in a shady world.

That, in short, is the conclusion voiced by a number of religious authorities today, as nations seethed over the conduct of espionage.

"It belongs to that class of things that are morally ambiguous but sometimes necessary," says the Rev. Dr. Daniel D. Williams, of Union Theological Seminary.

Both Christian and Jewish scholars offer a similar view—that espionage involves questionable behavior, but that it may be warranted by overriding facts of international life.

"It's an immoral act for what we think is a moral purpose—the defense of our country and ideals," says Rabbi Dr. Robert Gordis, of Jewish Theological Seminary, New York. "It's a tragic necessity, at best."

In other words, it demands deception, stealth and other activity that impinges on ethical tenets, but which in the face of circumstances, may serve a greater, overbalancing good.

"You can't divorce moral practice from reality," says the Very Rev. Dean Edmond Benard, dean of the School of Sacred Theology of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

"In an ideal world, espionage would not be morally justified. But this isn't that kind of world, and if we must have certain information to protect our nation against threats and subversion, our government has an obligation to get it."

"If there is no other way, then we are justified in using espionage."

Down through history, the spy has left a dubious, shadowy image, immersed in doubledealing, masquerade, prying into the privacy of others under false pretenses and sham. But it has remained a standard trade of nations.

"It is part of the general immorality of war," Dr. Gordis says. "It is one of the instrumentalities of war, and represents a kind of suspension of ethical principles, the same as on the battlefield."

"It's part of the tragic dilemma of existing in a world that doesn't live by moral principles. It sheds light on the tragic moral devices inhering in our civilization in not fulfilling the purposes it believes in."

Both the godly and ungodly rulers of Biblical days used spies. Scripture also speaks of a contrast between "spies" and "true men." But it lays down no specific injunctions on the matter.

Goren On Bridge

Q. 1—As dealer you hold:

AK 10 2 ♥KQ 7 4 3 ♦Q 5 ♠10 8

What is your opening bid?
A.—This may be described as a hand of just moderate strength (it is worth 15 points). With these hands, care should be exercised to avoid getting up too high. If you treat both suits as of the same length, it will be more convenient to show them both at a reasonable level. The recommended bid, therefore, is one spade.

Q. 2—You have 70 part score.

Partner opens with one club and you hold:

AK 6 2 ♥K 5 ♦KJ 6 3 2 ♠10 6 4

What do you bid?

A.—Although this hand does not theoretically contain the values required to keep the bidding open, with this advanced score, it is almost mandatory to do so with a call of one diamond. Partner may be in a position to rebid one spade, which would complete the game. Or if partner should rebid two clubs, you should hardly expect to be come involved in debts beyond the limits of your allowance. In situations of this type it is well to keep up appearances. A pass by you might inspire the opposition with too much confidence.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AK 6 ♥K 7 6 ♦AQ J 7 5 ♠Q J 7

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♦ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—You have somewhat more than an opening bid, but not enough to justify great enthusiasm. You have a choice of rebidding diamonds or bidding one no trump. The latter bid is chosen because it is important to show the heart stopper.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♥Q 10 9 7 5 ♦Q 10 9 8 ♠KQ J 9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand has enormous possibilities. You should bid three clubs which modern practice decrees as absolutely forcing despite your previous pass. We deem this bid as slightly superior to the alternative bid of four hearts.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, opponent opens one spade and you hold:

AKJ 5 ♥AJ ♦AKQ 5 3 ♠10 5 4

What do you bid?

A.—One no trump. This is preferable to overcalling with two diamonds. If partner hasn't very much, you might as well play it at one no trump. If he has some strength and chooses to give you 2 raise, you will have a good chance for game.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

AK 2 ♥KQ 7 5 2 ♦7 ♠A10 6 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

3 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. This hand is not far removed from an opening bid. Partner has opened the bidding and made a superjump. A slam is, therefore, highly probable in one of your suits. The four club bid is a one round force and a slam try.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

AK 7 ♥AKQ 10 7 3 ♦Q 3 2 ♠5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass 3 ♦ Pass

4 ♠ Pass 4 ♥ Pass

5 ♠ Pass 5 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Seven hearts. Partner's immediate slam try of three diamonds (in which suit you hold the queen) and his subsequent willingness to show the ace of clubs, despite the fact that he has no high heart honor, make it clear that the diamond suit is solid and will provide discards for declarer's losers.

Q. 8—You are South and hold:

AK 5 ♥Q 7 ♦AQJ 10 7 6 ♠7 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♦ Pass

2 ♥ Pass 3 ♦ Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

(Look for answers Monday)
A.—This may sound quite dramatic, we recommend contracting for game in diamonds. It is true the argument may be advanced that, by bidding two diamonds and rebidding the suit, you have already done full justice by your hand; but nevertheless, certain facts have come to light which did not appear at the outset of this hand. You have since learned that partner probably has a singleton club and, furthermore, you have good reason to regard with considerable respect the value of the queen of hearts. In view of partner's strong bidding, it is not unreasonable to gamble on holding your losses to one club and one trick in the major suit. (Copyright, 1960, The Chicago Tribune)

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kitchen capers are serious business

among the nation's nine million teenage damsels.

The fact that one out of three mothers works outside the home contributes to the realistic atmosphere as the young ladies face the test of battle in the kitchen.

In these households, especially, the teenage cook ties on the apron strings under front-line conditions. But even the non-working mother depends on teenage hands in the kitchen—be they on the potato-peeling detail or the ones sent into the super market to shop.

This contemporary picture of the female teenager's influential position when she ties on the apron strings is by way of a magazine (Seventeen) survey on the relative power of the young miss in the kitchen.

Marketing experts, supported by depth probers, have found enough in the way of facts to confer on the nation's teenage girls the status of "acting home manager."

They credit the teenage miss with savvy when operating around the home range, but they also make the point that the teenage cooks have more than purses packed with pin money for mad fancies.

That is — the young ladies help to decide how the family's basic food money is spent. This is a departure from the image holding that the teen-age girl is, in the main, a party-giver. Supporting the view that the food shopping, And strengthening the view that marketing purse strings in her the teenagers plan and cook family, the survey found that 89 meals, the survey probers report, per cent of the Teen Magazine's ed that 97 per cent of the teen-readers help to do the family's agers in the sampling plan all or part of the family meals.

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your time and he doesn't even know I advice to Gladys whose husband was a sport car nut was for the birds. You told her to "count her blessings." You said she should be happy her competition is a 4-wheeled hunk of steel and not a two-legged blonde.

It's obvious that YOUR husband is no sport car fanatic. Mine is — so please listen to someone who knows what it's all about.

I wish to heaven my husband were interested in another woman instead of cars. I'd know how to fight that kind of competition. If the other woman is attractive, you can concentrate on your looks and trim down your figure. If she's affectionate you can fight this kind of fire with fire. But how do you compete with a Jaguar or an M.G.?

I'm 31 years old, Ann. I don't need a re-tread and I'm not out of gas just yet. But every spare minute finds him in the garage with the cars. No conversation. No church together. No visiting friends or family. Just grease on the rugs, grease in the sink and gasoline on the lawn. —I KNOW

DEAR I KNOW: Thanks for your letter. Now we all know how it looks from the other side of the dashboard.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have both worked hard and long to have a lovely home—all paid for. We recently put down beautiful inlaid linoleum in the vestibule, corridors and family room.

Last week we had guests in and the metal lifts on the women's heels have just about ruined our inlaid floors.

I cried when I saw the hundreds of little nicks all over. I phoned the floor-covering firm that sold us the linoleum and they said they could do nothing but recommend a heavy wax. The nicks cannot be removed.

Do you think it would be all right to ask the women guests to remove their shoes when they enter our home? —H.A.

DEAR H.A.: Not unless you're having a Japanese costume party.

Floors are to walk on. You can't ask guests to remove their shoes because you're concerned about the linoleum.

You should have investigated the durability of the material before you made the investment. Some people are willing to sacrifice practicality for beauty's sake. (Example: White carpeting in Chicago.)

A heavy coating of wax will help cover the nicks and protect the floor somewhat against future scarring.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had a very wonderful boy friend and we had a grand steady-relationship all through our sophomore year in high school. My dream situation turned into a horrible nightmare when the girl I considered my best friend stole him away under my very nose.

Now they're together all the

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—One of the most charming and intelligent men I have met in many a day is Martin B. McKneally, national commander of the American Legion, with whom I dined at Dino's, the day, gave an interview to the press in which he said that the entire motion picture industry was being blackened by the indiscretions of a few, and that a whole industry should not be condemned. The solution, he said, is within the industry itself, a question of more self-regulation—more policing of itself by the entertainment world.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Sitting Pretty
Graceful comportment is an essential component of charm. It is the outward manifestation of poise. To appear graceful, you must sit down without "plopping," and remain seated without fidgeting. Forget the idea that perching on the edge of your chair denotes alertness. The edge-of-the-chair pose simply detracts from your look of ease, puts you on a teeter-totter instead of a balanced swing. Start by practicing the "S" curve position that makes every woman's figure appear more svelte-like when seated. In one easy motion, lower your hips firmly against the back, right corner of a chair, placing your thighs at an angle to the front edge of it. Square your shoulders so your waist will look small, and pull your feet as far as possible to the right. This way your feet, too, will appear small. When you stand, push upward with a single motion. Here is a "tight squeeze" technique for a crowded bus or subway that is practical, comfortable, and still charming to look at. Get right up to your seat before you about-face. As you turn, be sure your feet are together and the back of your legs touch the seat. Now, using your legs as slow-moving levers, lower yourself easily. To perfect your appearance, make your feet look small and delicate by drawing the right heel into the left in step. If crowding necessitates tucking your feet far under, hook your right ankle behind your left; slide your legs back and about six inches to the left—until your left toe supports its share of the weight. Complete your picture of ease by resting your hands on top of your purse, palms up, the back of one hand in the palm of the other. Keep your head erect, shoulders squared and relaxed, waist pulled out of your hips. To practice these body and hand positions is to cultivate poise, deliberately. And poise is an invaluable asset in creating an illusion of tranquil beauty.

Man Returned
To Connecticut

A Hartford, Conn., man was returned Thursday to Connecticut by officials of that state's penitentiary on charges of parole violation following a hearing before Judge H. Gus Muntzing in Hampshire County Circuit Court, Romney. William R. DeSteph was picked up by Romney Chief of Police L. L. Hutter on May 22 when he noticed the Connecticut man hitchhiking through Romney. During the questioning, Hutter noticed that labels had been removed from all his clothing. Investigation revealed that he had been in penal institutions most of the time since he was 11 years old and recently had been paroled from the Connecticut penitentiary. The provisions of his parole prohibited him from leaving that state. He waived extradition when arraigned before Judge Muntzing and was turned over following the hearing to the Connecticut officials.

Mad Women And Mist
Quite by accident, I rather stumbled upon a most successful formula, the mystery story, of all things. The Dow series has been such a smash hit that everyone is getting on the bandwagon. There'll be several other similar series, including the "Chevy Mystery Show," an utter boulder, played by Robert "Moment of Fear," and "Thriller" Fleming, was trying to deliver on NBC, and "The Invisible Man," based on the H. G. Wells story, which he's venturing to ask why about in why he's being dismissed from the household. "You have allowed yourself to form an attachment to my half-sister," says Siobhan McKenna, letting him have it right on the kisser. "I realize I'm just a poor drawing master," she says the slob. When asked if she really loves Sir Percival, the heroine "Lois Nettleton" hangs her head pitifully and cries: "I fear I've not thought of him often of late." And Siobhan says: "This marriage was her father's dying wish." I tell you it takes acting of a high order to get words like that out of your mouth without sticking in your teeth.

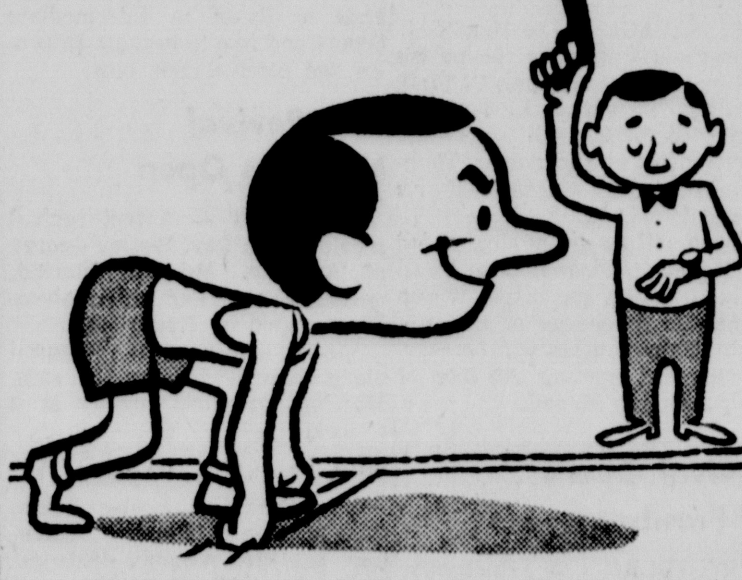

It's been a long time since I peeked into Mr. Collins's book, but as I recall, it's terribly eerie and frightening. Some of its mood slipped away in the interest of getting all that plot unwound. At one point, we found Siobhan McKenna up to her waist in the swamp, while listening to those two devils, Fleming and Slezak, plot the extinction of her half-sister, Miss Nettleton. However this didn't seem frightening so much as just plain silly. I must say it held your interest—though not in the spirit the author intended—these scenes when the half-crazy Miss Nettleton wandered through a graveyard she's supposed to be buried in, that poor drawing master Arthur Hill, confronting evil Mr. Fleming in the grim old house, the chandelier crashing down on the villain, serving the twin purpose of exterminating him and setting the house on fire. (The Victorians loved the denouement featuring a burning building.) You watch all this passionate plotting in a spirit of detached amusement, not quite believing any of it either. Whatever the attraction, the important thing is that it is attracting great audiences, just possibly in revolt against the endless inanity and sameness of the Westerns. This story, incidentally, was preceded by a Western which ended with a couple of men rolling on the ground like small boys.

Mt. Savage Railroader Retires

Howard E. Stevens of Mt. Savage, will work his last day tomorrow as a test rack operator in the Ridgeley car yards of the Western Maryland Railway. Entering his retirement tomorrow, Mr. Stevens concludes 47 years of work without a furlough. He started to work for the C & P Railroad on April 15, 1913 as a car inspector. When the W. Md. Railway absorbed the C & P he became a test rack operator and has continued in that job. He is one of the organizers of Local No. 775, Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen, and served as treasurer of the local until 1958.

Frostburg Legion Post Sponsors Program Today

Memorial Day program this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Frostburg Memorial Park, according to Charles M. Merrbach, chairman and assistant commander.

Invocation will be given by Kenneth E. Morelock, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, who is a native of Taneytown and a graduate of Gettysburg College and Gettysburg Theological Seminary. He assumed the local pastorate this spring, but has not been ordained.

Raymond Layman, adjutant, will serve as master of ceremonies, and Miller Bowen, local attorney, will deliver the principal address. Music will be furnished by the Arion Band under the direction of Darrell Zeller.

The "Gettysburg Address" by Joseph Evans will be followed by the placing of a wreath before the Farday monument by the Legion, Braddock Chapter 9, DAV, and Company D, 1st Medium Tank Battalion, National Guard. A salute will be fired by the Legion honor guard. Taps by Dale Williams will be followed by an echo by Dale Hager. Morelock will then close the ceremonies with the benediction.

During the morning hours, Merrbach said, a firing squad, chaplain, color guard and buglers will visit local cemeteries for a short ceremony. The schedule follows: Percy, 9; Zion, 9:30; St. Michael's, 9:45; Eckhart, 10:15; Porter's, 10:30; Vale Summit, 11, and the World War I memorial stone at Eckhart Flat at 11:30.

Area Woman Takes Office As State Councilor In Daughters Of America

LONA CONING—Mrs. Nellie B. Miller of 70 Douglas Avenue, was installed as state councilor at the State Daughters of America Council of Maryland public installation at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, before approximately 400 Daughters of America members from Lonaconing, Frostburg, Gaithersburg, Baltimore City, and national officers of Georgia, Kentucky, Ohio, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Her home council, Pride of Lonaconing Council No. 96, Daughters of America, conducted the ritual installation ceremonies and executed a fancy drill exhibition. A presentation of boutonniere formed as an old fashioned nosegay, for a monetary gift, was made to Mrs. Miller.

The newly installed assistant state councilor, Alfred Chesney, was presented a bow tie formed as a monetary gift. The past state councilor, Mrs. Edna M. Engle was pianist for the entire installation ceremony at Baltimore.

The distinguishing honor of Mrs. Miller's appointment as presiding officer this year is, that in the 64 years of existence, she is the first state councilor outside of a five mile radius of Baltimore.

Mrs. Nellie B. Miller will be presiding officer at the next session, which will be the 65th anniversary meeting.

The orchid flower will be the sixty-fifth anniversary symbol; the Twenty-Third Psalm will be the spiritual theme; "B-u-i-l-d" will be the slogan; "Golden Rule" will be the motto Mrs. Miller said.

In her speech she stated, "my slogan will be a five letter word, 'Build.' There are so many things to build, alone or together. When we pray and our prayers are in earnest, we build a bridge from our heart to the heart of God. When we give of our goodness, our love, our kindness and our resources, we are building a bridge to the fellowship of mankind."

She was first elected to state office in 1957, having been a member of the Pride of Lonaconing Council No. 96, Daughters of America, since 1932. She has worked on various committees through the years.

Her new duties will take her through the state of Maryland, and also to the national session to be held in October at Atlanta, Ga.

The Meaning Of Memorial Day

History has laid upon the conscience of the American people a continuing obligation to the memory of those who died in the nation's defense. As a symbol of fulfilling this duty, on Memorial Day flowers are placed on soldiers' graves.

Can those so honored benefit by this good intent? Faith through the ages has promoted the hope that in some degree loved ones gone beyond can be reached by expressions of loving memory. Faith is a mighty force in human affairs.

Perhaps it is well for our peace of mind that the soldier dead can not speak to us. Certainly they could speak with the authority of patriotism's highest fulfillment. To that cause they gave the last full measure of their devotion.

What can they reveal to us in the light of that higher plane of understanding to which faith in immortality says they have been transplanted? Could they show us that way which so long has been sought by humanitarians, whereby human problems could be solved without human bloodshed?

When we pay homage to the American soldier, we are not concerned merely with his great deeds and the victories he won. It is the fact that he went where his country asked him to go, and suffered what his country's need required him to suffer, that is important.

Memorial Day brings no pride of conquest—except for our pride in the American soldier's eternal conquest of himself, his ability to beat down fear and thought of self and face the fortunes of battle.

As we decorate the graves of the heroic dead, let us listen in our inner consciousness for their instruction and admonition. Let us "highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

The Congress

During 1960 not only will a President be elected but also members of the Senate and the entire House of Representatives. Whereas the office of the President is more dramatic than that of a Senator or a Representative, at times the success of an important measure can be delayed or vitiated in the Congress. Much depends upon Congressional leadership of either party whether a program passes through Congress. Therefore, it is necessary to note closely who runs this year.

For instance, on the Republican side, some of the most important Senators will come up for re-election this year. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, the leader of the Republican Party in the Senate, is up for re-election. It is to be assumed that he is in no danger; that he will be re-elected.

Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, one of the leading and most constructive members of the Senate, has been in Congress 21 years and in the Senate since 1948. A quiet man, Senator Mundt has a record of achievement of important service not only for his constituency but for the country. The probability is that he will be re-elected by South Dakota which has sent him to the Senate for two terms.

On the Democratic side, Senators James O. Eastland of Mississippi and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee come up for re-election. Eastland seems to be secure; Kefauver is not so secure. Senator Richard Neuberger of Oregon died and his wife is running in his stead. It is believed that she will be elected. The clobbering that Senator Wayne Morse got at the hands of Senator John Kennedy indicates either that Kennedy is more popular than Morse or that Morse, who has been a Republican and is now a Democrat, has outgrown his welcome. He remains in the Senate, however.

It is natural to note that Senators who remain in service the longest and serve on useful committees have the widest influence in the Senate. The 10 Senators of the longest tenure are Carl Hayden of Arizona (since 1927); Richard B. Russell of Georgia (since 1933); Harry F. Byrd of Virginia (since 1933); James E. Murray of Montana (since 1934); Dennis Chavez of New Mexico (since 1935); Styles Bridges of New Hampshire (since 1937); Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana (since 1937); Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island (since 1937); Lister Hill of Alabama (since 1938); Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin (since 1939).

Tenure is very important in both Houses. In the House of Representatives, Sam Rayburn, the Speaker, began his service in 1913 and has served continuously for 24 terms. His tenure in the House is equalled only by Representative Carl Vinson. It is often said that only Southern Representatives have long tenures. This is not altogether correct. Two New York State Representatives have each served through 19 terms, that is, 38 years. They are Emanuel Celler and John Taber. Fifty three Representatives have been in the House of Representatives more than 10 terms; that is more than 20 years. This is a very long experience.

Senators and Representatives vary in interests, knowledge, aptitude. They are not, in any respect, required to represent the entire nation. They serve best when they limit themselves to the interests of a particular constituency, for then the Congress is a cross section of the nation.

Some Senators and Representatives are authorities, in their own right, of particular subjects. For instance, Representatives Walter H. Judd was a medical missionary in China. He is an expert in both fields, medicine and China. Senator Ernest Gruening, before he became a Senator from Alaska, was the country's leading expert on Alaska. There are financial, agricultural, labor experts, all kinds of experts in either House and each specialist makes himself known to his colleagues by achievement.

When men work together for 20 or 30 years, seeing each other every day for prolonged periods each year, they come to know character, habits, capacities. They know each other's virtues and vices. After a while, their wives become friends and the families play together. Such a friendship as has long existed between Sam Rayburn, Southerner and Democrat, and Joe Martin, Northerner and Republican, is not too unusual. Men of good will are often associated in great causes whatever their affiliations. Of course, in a large body of men there are always a few scalawags. It is easy to discover who they are.

Hardly A Stairway To The Stars

Reds Planned To Wreck Summit Before U-2

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The big date in current history is April 25, 1960, and not May 1, when the U-2 was downed in the Soviet Union.

In view of what has happened since, extraordinary significance attaches to the speech delivered by Nikita Khrushchev at Baku on April 25, which was reported in a fragmentary way in the American press.

An examination of the Baku speech shows clearly that the Soviet government had come to the conclusion that it would get nowhere at the "summit" conference. Overnight all the government-controlled radio stations and newspapers in the Soviet Union began to prepare the people for a "summit" failure and flatly blamed the West.

The same bitter tone which Mr. Khrushchev used in Paris is to be noted in what he said at Baku in a violent attack on Secretary Herter and Under Secretary Dillon.

On that same day, the Soviet Premier intimated that he planned to use military power to enforce his prospective seizure of West Berlin. He said in part:

"If the Western powers refuse to sign a peace treaty with the German Democratic Republic, they will not retain the rights on the preservation of which they are insisting. They naturally will forfeit the right of access to West Berlin by land, water and air."

In another portion of his speech, the Soviet Premier practically admitted that he had no hope of reaching any agreement at the "summit" conference. He said:

"The nearer the day (May 16) the heads of governments are to meet, the more one-sided is the approach of certain statesmen of the Western powers to the problems before the conference. . . ."

"Examples are not far to seek. Take a recent speech by the United States Under Secretary of State, Dillon, which is presented as a statement of the United States policy on the eve of the "summit" conference. That speech just reeks of the 'cold war' spirit. Dillon's statement is more like a collection of trite inventions about the Soviet Union and the socialist countries than a responsible policy declaration. . . ."

"Dillon tried to strike a note of ill will and suspicion on the very eve of the 'summit' conference when it is so essential that an atmosphere of international confidence should be created and maintained. . . ."

"Dillon referred to the 'summit' as a test of the good faith of the intentions of the Soviet Union, pretending that the outcome of the conference depends on the Soviet Union alone rather than on all of its participants. . . ."

"To judge from the statement by Mr. Dillon, who is, clearly, no outsider in the government quarters of the United States, it comes out that the United States government will not be willing to reach an agreement on disarmament and on the ways of improving East-West relations unless its view on the Berlin question is accepted. . . ."

"Why, then, did Dillon have to make a statement so obviously out of tune with the tenor of relations between the U.S.S.R. and the United States since my conversations with President Eisenhower at Camp David? . . ."

"I would not have touched on the statement by the United States Under Secretary of State if not for some other things which, unfortunately, find expression not only in word but also in deed, that put one on the lookout. . . ."

The Soviet Premier then made a vehement attack on the disarmament negotiations and accused the West of refusing really to reach an agreement. He added:

"Consider a speech made by Mr. Herter, the man who heads the United States Department of State and consequently shapes the foreign policy of his country. The speech which he made in Chicago on April 4 can only be regretted. . . ."

"Mr. Herter wants to engage us in discussions of the reunification of Germany, on holding some kind of plebiscites there, in discussions on questions which goods, and sharply reduced housing construction and sales are much on their minds. . . ."

They recall that America usually votes Democratic in periods of economic decline, and point to the recession year 1958 when the GOP took one of its worst drubbings at the polls. . . ."

If business should be on the skids by late this year, as some privately believe is likely, it would be virtually impossible for the Republican Party to elect its Presidential candidate, or increase its representation in the Senate or House. . . ."

Len Hall Persuaded Rockefeller To Drop Out Of Presidential Race

By Drew Pearson

Washington — The inside story of how Gov. Nelson Rockefeller was discouraged from running for president last December has never been told. Only a few people close to Len Hall, convivial ex-chairman of the Republican National Committee, know the story—and Hall won't talk about it.

Hall has probably shaped more political history in the last half dozen years than any other man in the USA. It was he who planned the strategy of persuading Ike, after his Denver heart attack, that it was only natural for a man with a heart condition to run for president. All of the President's family had decided he could not run. But Hall, an expert in psychology, called a press conference and took it for granted Ike would run. He kept at this strategy until the President finally accepted it.

Equally shrewd at human psychology on the negative side, it was Len Hall who persuaded Rockefeller six months ago, not to run. Rockefeller, however, never knew that it was Len Hall who did the persuading.

What happened between Ike's re-election in 1956 and Rockefeller's negative decision in December, 1959, was that Hall had suffered two personal disappointments. The first was handed him by Eisenhower, the second by Rockefeller.

Hall's Revenge
After re-electing Ike, Hall had hoped to be a member of the Cabinet, perhaps Secretary of Commerce. But the Justice Department cautioned the White House that Hall had got himself involved in the embarrassing Nicaro Nickel case in Cuba. He had demanded that Frederick H. Snare officials contribute heavily to the Republican party before they got a $43,000,000 contract to enlarge the Nicaro Nickel plant. To demand political contributions in return for a government contract is a criminal offense.

Hall was never prosecuted. Like so many other conflict-of-interest cases in this administration, he was eased gracefully out of Washington.

Back in New York, he cherished the ambition of becoming governor. In April 1958, however, Nelson Rockefeller decided to run for governor and his forces bulldozed Hall to the sidelines.

Two of Hall's ambitions thus were crushed. So very quietly he joined Nixon's forces. This was a terrific addition to the Nixon team, for Hall knows every Republican leader of any importance in the USA.

And last fall he put that acquaintance to good use—to block Rockefeller.

The minute Rockefeller announced his political tours, Hall would get on the long distance telephone to GOP leaders in the cities where the New York Governor was speaking. He laid down this strategy: "Give Rockefeller a cool reception. Be polite, but sit on your hands. Don't show a spark of enthusiasm. Let him know Republican leaders are all against him."

Hall kept the telephone going night and day. The strategy worked. GOP leaders were so cool that last December Rockefeller bowed out.

However, GOP leaders don't necessarily represent the rank and file of the Republican party. And more and more Republicans, though unorganized, are beginning to figure that if they are to win next November they need a fresh face on the ticket, especially one which hasn't straddled the Iron Curtain.

Weary Macmillan

The man who worked hardest to get the summit conference back on the track and was most disappointed at its failure was Harold Macmillan, Prime Minister of England.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The man with the snowy hair leafed through the old magazines, turning the pages carefully so that they would not tear loose. The young fellow, dark and intense, pointed out the interesting items. They were looking at some copies of Harper's Weekly for the summer of 1864.

The older man is Eugene Mori, who built Garden State Race Track as a refuge for tired swans. The young one is Tommy Roberts, head of public relations for Mori. They were sitting in Mori's pine-paneled office at the track and, out front, an announcer was calling out a six-furlong race in flat monotone. The two men paid no attention. For the moment, they were interested in American history.

I sat with them, scanning the pages, because I believe that progress is best judged by looking backward over the shoulder. The magazines were yellowed and full of finely drawn line cuts showing battle actions in the final year of the War Between the States.

The advertisements, I thought, were the most interesting. Let me quote some:

"Book: Nineteen Beautiful Years or, Sketches of a Girl's Life. Written by her sister with an introduction by Rev. R. S. Foster. 90c." I'll bet that one never hit the best seller list. "Asthma Cured. Relief guaranteed in ten minutes by Upham's Asthma Cure."

"Attention Soldiers! Clark's Ointment, a powerful stimulant warranted to produce a full set of whiskers or moustaches in six weeks. Price $1." "Ladies' Secret Letter. Five anatomical engravings. Has information never before published. Ten cents in a plain wrapper." Hmmm.

"Brandreth's Pills. The weak, the consumptive, rheumatic, bilious and delicate, after some days use, will find renewed strength and life pervade every organ of their frames. When first used, the pills may occasion griping, and even make the patient feel worse. This is an excellent sign, and shows the disease will soon be cured." It is possible that, without knowing it, Dr. Brandreth had discovered instant booze.

Fowler & Wells, a woman's store at 389 Broadway, New York, had the ladies flocking to their doors, the ad read: "Woman Culture. How to be beautiful and healthy. Does he love me? The mitten to whom and when to give it. The most dangerous eyes fully described. Self control. Economy corsets etc."

Mori read these and didn't laugh. He is a remarkable man whose quiet, half smile has carried him from running an automobile agency in Vineland, N. J., on up to ownership of Tanforan Track (which he sold), Garden State, and a host of other expen-

Macmillan had virtually ricocheted back and forth between London and Washington, London and Moscow, trying to keep relations friendly between Khrushchev and Eisenhower. After Chancellor Adenauer came to Washington to persuade Ike to stand firm on Berlin, Macmillan flew to Washington to make sure Ike had not been too much swayed by Adenauer's argument.

Macmillan had considered Khrushchev the best friend of the west in the Soviet orbit and tried to encourage him to be more democratic.

Describing one of his private conversations with Khrushchev to American officials, Macmillan said: "I told Mr. K 'You won't need to have rigged elections in Russia any more. You have given the Russian people a better standard of living and more benefits than any other man in history. You are not like Stalin who sat as if he was suspicious of the world. You could have real democracy in Russia.'"

"What was Khrushchev's reaction?" asked one American.

"He laughed and laughed," replied the British Prime Minister, "and seemed to like the compliment."

However, Macmillan is now reported very weary of his efforts to bring the Big Four together. The diplomatic grapevine has it that he will resign as Prime Minister of England toward the end of the year.

Behind The Scenes

The FBI has sent a battery of G-men to West Virginia to investigate reported vote-buying by Kennedy forces; also reports of large amounts of cash withdrawn from West Virginia banks just before the primary. . . . President Eisenhower likes to have Under Secretary Dillon accompany Secretary Herter whenever foreign policy is discussed at the White House. He has a lot of confidence in Dillon. . . .

The American Embassy in Tokyo has appealed to Eisenhower not to cancel his good-will visit to Japan even though the Socialist opposition threatens riots and demonstrations. Any move to cancel the trip, the Embassy warns, would be regarded as a grave insult to the Emperor, who has invited him. It would also add tremendous prestige to the Socialists, who would then be known as the party which forced Eisenhower to cancel his visit.

sive goodies, through a successful marriage and three children and six grandchildren.

This is a lot of mileage to get out of an enigmatic smile. Tommy Roberts and I were laughing ourselves into fits. One ad advertised "Violin Strings for Hot Weather." A man named John Lord promised $60 a month to responsible married men who would go out and sell his "ever-lasting pencils." To get a sweet breath, people bought Balm of a Thousand Flowers for 75c.

There was a new war song called "Dreaming of Home." The U. S. Government advertised $200,000,000 in war bonds at 5 per cent interest for 40 years. For travelers and military men, S. W. H. Ward was selling steel collars for 75 cents, guaranteed not to soil. One of the jokes of the day, which split the sides of the city slickers was: "When a man is about to be cooked by cannibals, his very existence is at STAKE."

The drug laws of 1864 must have been a little loose because the Burnett Company advertised: "Cocaine for the hair, has had nearly fifty imitators, all demonstrating the great popularity of the article." In the hair? This must have led to some wild scalp.

At the time these issues of Harper's were published, General U. S. Grant was fighting the battle of Cold Harbor; General William T. Sherman was at Marietta, Georgia, and Abraham Lincoln was in receipt of a formal notice that he had been nominated for a second term by the Republican Party.

The three of us sat looking at little mosaics of American history and, for a time, it was more interesting and less costly than watching the races. All of it happened only 96 years ago and, as we left the stack of magazines, I wondered if, that many years from now, someone would stare up at a skyscraper apartment house and say: "In the old days, they tell me, a race track used to stand on this spot."

Abuse Of Vocal Cords Can Bring Hoarseness

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some people overuse or misuse the voice for so many years they are too hoarse to talk by age 35. A middle-aged woman had this trouble. She had been orphaned at age 6 and went to live with her grandmother, who was hard of hearing. This meant the girl had to yell to be heard. In high school she continued to overproject her voice which in time acquired a husky quality. The woman married and several years later, became a saleswoman. Because of the noisy atmosphere in the store she was forced to shout at the customers. In time it was impossible to understand what she was saying.

A throat specialist found growths on both vocal cords. After their removal, her voice returned but this was only the beginning of the treatment. She was sent to a speech therapist to learn how to talk without damaging her vocal cords again.

Such a program is known as voice rehabilitation and is done to correct faulty vocal habits. In some instances this type of treatment is all that is necessary for hoarseness caused by a small nodule or a swollen vocal cord. Rest and conserving the voice encouraged the damaged tissues to heal.

These nodules are not cancerous and are common in singers, hucksters, auctioneers, lecturers, and others who abuse the voice. It may be necessary to take out larger tumors but smaller growths respond to rest and speech training.

Hoarseness is not a disease but a symptom of a disorder of the larynx. Investigation always is in order when it develops for no apparent reason or when it follows a cold and fails to subside within three weeks. After all, the symptom might be the first and only sign of a serious disease such as cancer.

Pittsburgh Wins, 8-5, Ties Giants For First Place

Green Helps Law Rack Up 7th Triumph

Buccaneers Hand Philadelphia 6th Straight Setback

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vernon Law with the help of Fred Green in relief won his seventh game of the year Sunday for the Pittsburgh Pirates with an 8-5 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies. It was the Phillies sixth straight loss.

The victory moved the Pirates back into a tie for first place with the San Francisco Giants, who lost 4-1 to St. Louis in a game called at the end of five innings by rain.

Green, a 28-year-old southpaw, shut the door on the Phillies in the seventh by striking out pinch-hitter B. G. Smith with two aboard. Roberto Clemente's spectacular catch of pinch-hitter Panchito Herrera's sinking liner saved two runs earlier.

The game was delayed by rain for 16 minutes in the seventh inning.

Two American Runners Crack 4-Minute Mile

Beatty's Time 3:58, Burleson's 3:59.2 In California Relays

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MODESTO, Calif. (AP)—American runners finally are cracking through the four-minute barrier for the mile.

Little Jim Beatty and slim Dyr Burleson proved that Saturday night as they finished one-two at the California Relays after Australia's world record holder Herb Elliott was scratched by injury.

Beatty smashed the American century's record with 3 minutes, 58 seconds as the University of Oregon sophomore Burleson was timed at 3:59.2, the first time U.S. runners were under four minutes in a single race. Until this year, only Don Bowden of California, in 1955, had run under four minutes.

The only faster mile was a 3:57.8 by Elliott on May 16, 1958. The Australian later in the year set his world mark of 3:54.5 at Dublin, Ireland.

Both he and top United States Olympic sprint hope, Ray Norton, met the injury jinx Saturday night. Elliott's right knee, which had

Stitcher And Winter Beagles Win Trials

Stitcher's Scamp, And Winter's Daisy Are Point Victors

Hounds owned by Louis Stichter of Cumberland and Elmer Winter of Cresaptown were judged the winners of the third Point Trial of the season held yesterday by the Allegany Beagle Club on the Barton Dairy Farm, McMullen Highway.

Stitcher's Scamp was selected as the best of six entries in the 15 inch class in which the judges were Ivan Rhoades, St. Michael, Pa., and Chester Kinser, Cumberland.

Winter's Daisy won over 13 entries in the 13 inch class, judged by Rhoades and Fred Kreiger, of Cresaptown.

Three more point trials will be held by the club beginning in September.

Yesterday's results:

15 INCH CLASS (4 ENTRIES)
1. Stichter's Scamp, Louis Stichter, Cumberland.

Ted Williams Is Slated To Manage Bosox

Yawkey Is Reported Ready To Offer Job

By MILTON UCHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Yawkey is hanging on to the Boston job by his fingertips; and owner Tom Yawkey will: Ted Williams to take over as Red Sox manager shortly, it was learned on excellent authority Sunday.

The 41-year-old Williams repeatedly has said he has no managerial aspiration, but would accept the Red Sox piloting job in all probability chiefly for the sake of Yawkey, whom he regards as his best friend in baseball.

The wheels for the change in management, were put into motion last Friday when it was announced in Washington that Williams was bedded in his hotel room with a cold. Actually, he was summoned back to Boston, the United Press International learned, presumably to be soundly out on how he felt about taking over the team.

For all his celebrated militance, Williams isn't the type who would undercut any man for a job, especially a job he wasn't particularly eager for in the first place. "But he'll take the job if Yawkey asks him to do so," said the UPI's informant. He'll be told that no matter how he decides, Yawkey definitely will go.

Gene Mauch had been regarded the logical successor to Yawkey when he began the current season as manager of the Minneapolis club, which works with the Red Sox but Mauch moved out of the picture upon being named manager of the Phillies in place of Eddie Sawyer during April.

Rookie Hurls K.C. A's To 4-2 Victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rookie Ken Johnson, making his first start, pitched an eight-hitter and Andy Carey batted in three runs for Kansas City as the Athletics defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-2 Sunday.

Carey drove in one run with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and two more with a home run in the third.

Johnson's victory was his first following two losses in relief. The performance moved him into strong contention for a regular starting berth.

Johnson, 26, was a pitching rival of Chicago starter Herb Score when the two attended high school in the West Palm Beach, Fla., area. He struck out seven and walked only two.

Score, making his sixth start of the season, was wild and lasted only 1-1/3 innings.

Podres Beats Chicago, 4-0

Duke Snider Belts Pair Of Home Runs

CHICAGO (AP) — Two home runs by Duke Snider supported the sharp pitching of southpaw Johnny Podres and powered the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday before 24,214.

Snider, who came into the game with a .197 average, slammed a three-run homer off starter Don Cardwell in the fourth inning and added his fourth of the season with none on in the sixth inning.

The two homers gave Snider a career total of 353, one less than Johnny Mize who ranks ninth among all-time sluggers.

Podres, scoring his fourth victory against as many losses, was in command all the way. He struck out four and walked two but became ill after pitching eight innings and Larry Sherry finished up. Podres gave up five hits.

Sherry none.

Orioles Beat Bosox Twice

Baltimore Scores 6-1 And 5-4 Wins

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ronnie Hansen homered and Gene Woodling singled in the winning run in the last of the ninth Sunday as Baltimore defeated Boston 5-4 in the second game of a doubleheader.

The Orioles, holding onto first place in the American League, defeated the Red Sox 6-1 in the opener.

Baltimore now has won 22 of its last 31 games in driving from the cellar to first place since April 24.

Rookie left-hander Steve Barber, the hero of the first game, the 21-year-old batted in a run with his first hit in the major leagues and held the Red Sox to six hits while he struck out three and walked five.

Gene Mauch had been regarded the logical successor to Yawkey when he began the current season as manager of the Minneapolis club, which works with the Red Sox but Mauch moved out of the picture upon being named manager of the Phillies in place of Eddie Sawyer during April.

The only other prominent candidates are coaches Billy Herman of the Red Sox and Bobby Bragan of the Dodgers, but Yawkey, a long-time admirer of Williams, prefers him and believes he would make a popular manager in Boston.

Podres Beats Chicago, 4-0

Duke Snider Belts Pair Of Home Runs

CHICAGO (AP) — Two home runs by Duke Snider supported the sharp pitching of southpaw Johnny Podres and powered the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Sunday before 24,214.

Snider, who came into the game with a .197 average, slammed a three-run homer off starter Don Cardwell in the fourth inning and added his fourth of the season with none on in the sixth inning.

The two homers gave Snider a career total of 353, one less than Johnny Mize who ranks ninth among all-time sluggers.

Podres, scoring his fourth victory against as many losses, was in command all the way. He struck out four and walked two but became ill after pitching eight innings and Larry Sherry finished up. Podres gave up five hits.

Sherry none.

Lopez's Blast Wins For Yanks

Homer In Eleventh Tops Senators, 6-4

NEW YORK (AP)—Hector Lopez lined a two-run homer into the lower right field seats in the 11th inning Sunday for a 6-4 New York Yankee victory over the Washington Senators. It was Lopez' second homer of the year.

Mickey Mantle, who hit his sixth homer in the sixth inning, had singled with two out before Lopez broke up the game with his homer off loser Don Lee.

Washington, shut out by Bob Turley 3-0 for eight innings, came up with three in the ninth to chase Turley and send the game into overtime. The Senators moved out front in the top of the 10th on a walk to Harmon Killebrew, a sacrifice, and infield out at Faye Throneberry's run scoring double.

New York tied it again in the last of the 10th when Gil McDougald drew a pass from Don Lee on a 3-2 pitch with the bases loaded and two out. Bobby Richardson hit into a force out ending the inning.

Ford Captures $9,000 Prize

Doug's 270 Noses Out Jerry Barber

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Relentless Doug Ford, playing with merciless efficiency, shot a three under par 68 Sunday to gain five strokes on front runner Jerry Barber and win the $9,000 first prize of the "500 Festival" open golf tourney. He shot a 72 hole total of 270, 14 under par.

It was Ford's first tournament victory since he won the Canadian Open in 1959, but it was his 16th tournament win since he joined the tour in 1948. The prize money, from a total jackpot of $50,000, lifted his 1960 earnings to more than $21,000.

Barber, from Los Angeles, finished with 272, and won second money of $4,600 to increase his 1960 earnings to more than $25,000. He was one stroke ahead of Doug Sanders, Miami Beach, Fla., and Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., who finished at 273, each earning $2,800.

Ken Venturi, Palo Alto, Calif., won fifth place with 274 for $2,300, and at 275 there was a five way tie between Don Whitt, Borrego Springs, Calif.; Johnny Potts, Shreveport, La.; Jerry Pittman, Tulsa, Okla.; Gene Little, Singing Hills, Calif., and Bob Goaly, Crystal River, Fla., each winning $1,760.

Tied at 276 for $1,300 each were J.C. Goosie, Knoxville, Tenn.; Julius Boros, Mid-Pines, N.C., and Gary Player, Johannesburg, South Africa.

Communists Blamed For Planting Bomb

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The crude bomb planted at the American Embassy here Thursday was the work of Communist agents, the newspaper Bangkok Post quoted Prime Minister Sarit Thanarat as saying Saturday.

The grenade-like bomb was left with an unsigned threatening letter at the embassy police box.

The bomb did not go off. Embassy officials said the contents of the letter, which were kept secret, showed it was not the work of Communists, "just someone who is peeved with Americans." Sarit ordered a full investigation.

Find Ancient Vase

ISLAND OF ISCHIA, Italy (UPI) — Fisherman Sunday brought up an almost perfectly preserved Roman vase believed to be 2,000 years old.

The three men, Salvatore Romeo, 76, Pietro Ruocco, 56, and Roberto de Martino, 29, were fishing in the famed Blue Grotto when they hauled the red vase from about 300 feet. Experts who looked at the vase said they believed it dated back some 2,000 years.

There are thousands of species of mushrooms.

Publicizing Minors

The National Association is publishing a 32-page minor league almanac as a means of promoting attendance at minor league games. Five minor league parks will broadcast the June 20 Johanson-Patterson fight as a promotion device. The parks with closed circuit television are Atlanta, Columbus, Dallas, Tampa and Toronto.

19 Countians Seek Degrees At Maryland

2,650 To Graduate There Saturday

Nineteen Allegany County residents are among more than 2,650 University of Maryland students from the College Park and Baltimore campuses who are candidates for degrees in commencement exercises to be held at College Park Saturday.

Other candidates for graduation include three from Garrett County, three from Keyser and one from Hancock.

During the ceremonies Saturday, University President Wilson H. Elkins will confer the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, who will be the guest speaker. Others to be honored are James A. Dingman, vice president and chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, honorary doctor of engineering degree, and Dr. Robert E. Snodgrass, an anatomist and morphologist with the U.S. National Museum, honorary degree of doctor of science.

The Allegany countians include the following:

John J. McMullen Jr., 218 Fayette Street, University College, L.L.B. degree; Rosemary K. Hill, 301 Washington Street, graduate, M.S. and Josephine Q. Frase, 163 Bowery Street, graduate, M. Ed.

The following 13 are candidates for bachelor of science degrees:

Megan S. Muller, RFD 2, arts and sciences; Robert R. Parker, 571 Patterson Avenue, arts and sciences; Lucille E. Wanless, 602 Braddock Avenue, arts and sciences; Henry J. Glick, 120 N. Smallwood Street, pharmacy; Julianne C. Kelly, 727 Maryland Avenue, business and public administration; Fern E. Kenney, 578 Bedford Street, pharmacy; Henry A. King, 1822 Bedford Street, business and public administration; Eleanor Murphy, 881 Ridgedale Avenue, education; Dale E. White, 29 Wempe Drive, agriculture; Shirley J. Hendricks, Flintstone, education; John Weires, Weires Avenue Extended, LaVale, education; Eldon L. Nicol, Charleston Street, Lonaconing, home economics, and Thomas W. Gaughan, Columbia Avenue, Mt. Savage, engineering.

Three others are candidates for bachelor of arts degrees. They are Ellen G. Beneman, 109 Lute-man Road, arts and sciences; Robert C. Jones, Box 224, Cresaptown, arts and sciences, and Robert R. Robertson, Box 241, Lonaconing, physical education, recreation and health.

The three Garrett County residents all are candidates for bachelor of science degrees. They are Richard E. Lohr, Friendsville, agriculture; Harry A. Younk, RFD 2, Grantsville, engineering, and Ralph A. Calandrella, Kitzmiller, arts and sciences.

Two of the three Keyser candidates seek doctorates. Bryan E. Shepp, 232 East Main Street, is a candidate for a doctor of philosophy degree in graduate school. Clinton L. Rogers, 197 Fort Avenue, seeks an M.D. degree in medicine. Eugene G. Grossland, RFD 3, is a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in engineering.

Charles W. Creek of Hancock is a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in engineering.

Retiring Parade Marshal Active About 40 Years

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

The well-known song, "I Love a Parade," undoubtedly is one of the old favorites of Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal here for about 40 years, who has decided to step out of the parade picture in Cumberland.

After World War I he began organizing parades and since then has been getting organizations in line for Memorial Day, Labor Day and Armistice Day parades and in recent years Armed Forces Day revues.

His first recollection of organizing parade was one on Armistice Day 1919 when a local citizens committee held a parade in which "quite a few" veterans home from the war participated.

Out-Of-Town Parades

Mr. Conlon has taken part in out-of-town parades including one in Washington, D.C. in 1922 during a national convention of the Holy Name Society. He was in charge of the Western Maryland paraders and ended up leading 20,000 men who marched in the nation's capital along with sections from all over the country.

He recalls a national convention of the American Legion in 1937 in New York City when he marched as a delegate of Fort Cumberland Post 13. The parade began at 9 a.m. and lasted until 3 a.m. the following day. Sixteen abreast, legionnaires from all over America marched along Fifth Avenue.

On April 4, 1941, during an Army Day observance in Baltimore he was senior officer in the Eighth Battalion of the Maryland State Guard which paraded in that city. One of the highlights of his career was when he marshalled a parade early in the 1920's when General John J. Pershing was among the honored guests here.

Punctuality was one of his qualities and he always had the

Rose Hill Soldier's Monument Unveiled At Ceremonies 65 Years Ago Today

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Editorial Staff

The afternoon was warm and many of the 5,000 spectators stood under shade trees at Rose Hill Cemetery 65 years ago today when the "Soldier's Memorial Monument" was unveiled to the public.

Prior to the unveiling ceremony, a large and imposing procession formed in front of the Grand Army of the Republic Post Hall on Baltimore Street at 2 o'clock and, headed by the Cumberland Concert Band, marched to the cemetery in the following order:

Allegany County Academy cadets; Piccolo drum and bugle corps; Tyler Post GAR; a carriage carrying the orators of the day; The Women's Relief Corps, in carriages, and the different fire companies of the city, in uniform.

Cemetery Program
The program at the cemetery, presided over by C. C. Ball, Commander of Post 5, opened with music by the concert band. An address, "Union Soldiers' Devotion and Heroism," was delivered by Colonel G. W. F. Vernon, late Cole's Maryland Cavalry.

The colonel described in eloquent terms the privations and hardships which the soldiers had to endure, and paid a glowing description to their heroism and great devotion to the noble cause for which they fought.

Following his address, the monument was presented by Barbara Schilling, chairman of the committee of the Woman's Relief Corps, which had the tions given by local citizens.

As the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," the monument was unveiled by Misses Grace Warnick, Florence Kelly, Effie Robertson and Blanch Schilling.

Later in the program an address, "Good Results of the War," was delivered by George L. Wellington, member of Congress. His son, John L. Wellington lives at 303 Washington Street.

He said "we have as one of the good results of the war—a united country and one of the most prosperous nations on the face of the globe. No North, no South, no East, no West, but a free and united people hand in hand for the good of the commonwealth."

Graves Decorated
Each soldier's grave was decorated with flowers that day and the solemnity of the exercises was a touching scene. The monument was erected to honor men of the nation who fought for the Union 1861-65.

It is on a triangular plot of ground on the cemetery hill among maple trees which have grown tall during the past years. Those visiting the monument today will find colorful American flags placed at the weather-worn

Four Building Permits Issued

Four building permits for new dwellings which the builders estimate will cost a total of $32,800 to construct have just been issued by the Allegany County assessing department.

The Sunset View Real Estate Development Company, 129 Baltimore Street, has obtained a permit to build a $12,000 brick dwelling on Sunset Drive off Braddock Road in Election District 6. The house will be 44 feet by 28 feet in size.

Harry W. Stottlemeyer, Little Orleans, was issued a permit to build an $8,000 brick veneer house on an 18-acre tract on Baltimore Pike in Election District No. 1 at the east end of the county. William G. McIntyre, 203 Maryland Avenue, Westernport, obtained a permit for a $7,800 frame dwelling he plans to build on McCoolle Road in Election District 8. Alma Hanlin, 404 Park Street, was issued a permit for a $5,000 frame dwelling in Election District No. 6.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Hiner, Hyattsville, announce the birth of a son May 14 in Doctors Hospital, Washington. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arden Verner, this city, and the paternal grandmother is Mrs. Frank J. Hiner, also of this city.

Memorial Hospital

headstones which mark the final resting place of soldiers who paid the supreme sacrifice during the Civil War.

Soldiers Buried

Among them are James Campbell and B. F. Hornsby, who fought side-by-side in Company A, Second Maryland Infantry; C. M. Thomas of Company E, 191 Pennsylvania Infantry; Sergeant Jeremiah Everly, Henry Mintrop, Adam Scott, Corporal John F. Cruthers, Joseph Kirtley, J. L. Foster and others. Also near the monument is a simple headstone marked "Unknown U. S. Soldier."

On the base of the pedestal in large letters is carved the words, "Calvary," "Navy," "Artillery," and "Infantry."

Among the spectators at the unveiling was an 11-year-old barefoot boy, who witnessed the ceremony with his mother, brothers and sisters.

He is Charles W. Wright, of 29 Marion Street who observed the parade as the marchers walked along cobblestone streets to the cemetery.

Mr. Wright, who at the time was in the fourth reader at Centre Street School, said the trolley cars were running and provided transportation for Cumberlanders.

Only A Cow Path

He said the area where Allegany High School now stands was then a mere cow path.

Later in life Mr. Wright worked for 20 years as a shipping clerk at the Cumberland Dry Goods and Notion Company then located on Union Street. From 1934 to 1952 he was employed at the dye house at Amelle plant.

Herman J. Miller, of 217 Valley Street, local fireman, has a colorful souvenir and official program of the unveiling ceremony.

The program has pictures of high ranking officers who were killed in the war; officials in the cabinet of the Lincoln administration and advertisements of merchants in business that year.

Parade Here Will Begin At 11:30

Program Follows At Rose Hill

A four-division parade here this morning will be a feature of the local Memorial Day observance.

The parade, starting at 11:30 a. m., will leave from the old State Armory on South Centre Street, on Centre to Baltimore Street, on Baltimore across the Wills Creek bridge to Cumberland Street, on Cumberland to Allegany Street, on Allegany to Fayette Street, out Fayette Street to Rose Hill Cemetery.

Farrell Marshal

T. Raymond Farrell, of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, parade marshal, said the parade units will be as follows:

First Division—Allegany High School senior band, Mayor Edwin J. Keech, members of the city council, clergy and speakers. Members of Headquarters Company and C Company of First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor, 29th Infantry Division, Maryland National Guard, will join the division at the cemetery gate.

Second Division—Fort Hill High School senior band, Henry Hart Post 1411, VFW, its auxiliary unit and Military Order of the Purple Heart.

Third Division—Fulton Myers Post 153, American Legion, drum and bugle corps, and the post auxiliary unit.

Fourth Division—Allegany High junior band, Fort Cumberland Post and auxiliary, Cumberland Vulture 164, Forty and Eight Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine recruiters.

Cemetery Program

The program at the cemetery will include musical selections by the Fort and Allegany High senior bands. Rev. Arthur W. Bastrass, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church, will give invocation and benediction.

Fred H. Anderson, commander of the Fort Cumberland Post, will give the main address and will conduct the legion ceremony. A floral tribute will be presented by Joseph Macon, sergeant-at-arms.

Taps will be sounded by Albert Kerns and John Jackie. Raymond Reynolds, commander of Henry Hart Post, will conduct the annual memorial rites over the grave of Henry Hart, Cumberland soldier who died in World War I.

Oldtown Seniors To Hear Sermon Tuesday Night

The sermon to the 33 graduates of Oldtown High School will be delivered by Rev. Irvin Allen during a program in the school auditorium starting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, according to Joseph H. Pellerzi, school principal.

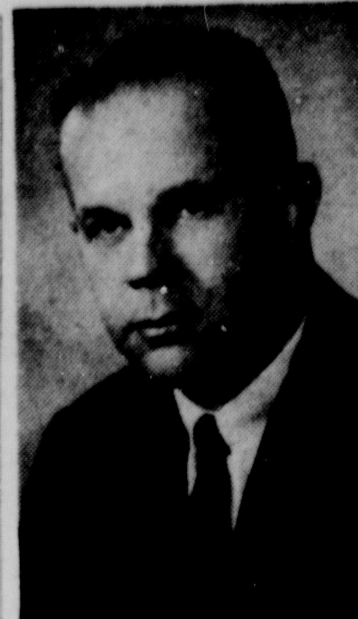

"Deciding" will be the topic of the sermon to the graduates, their relatives and friends.

Rev. William Anderson will deliver the invocation and benediction.

The boys' glee club will sing "Come Thou Holy Spirit." Patricia Ann Slider will sing "My Task" and the mixed chorus will present "Beautiful Savior."

Baby Wild Animals Here Tomorrow

Fifty baby animals will be in a zoo which will be located in the rear of the L. Bernstein store tomorrow from noon until 8 p.m. Kiddies, who bring their parents, can stay as long as they want and watch the baby wild animals.

JAMES S. GETTY

DONALD W. MASON

Attorneys Will Speak At Graduation Exercises

James S. Getty, state's attorney for Allegany County and Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, have been named speakers for graduation exercises Thursday and Friday evenings at Oldtown High School.

Mr. Getty will address the 33 seniors at Oldtown at 8 p.m. Thursday and will speak on "The Space Age." Mr. Mason, who will speak to 22 seniors at Flintstone High the following evening at 8 o'clock, has chosen "Imaginative Thinking," as his topic.

Mrs. Richard Winer, member of the Allegany County Board of Education, will present the diplomas at both Oldtown and Flintstone.

Mr. Getty, a native of Lonaconing where he still resides, is a son of Mrs. Gorman E. Getty and the late Dr. Getty. He was graduated from Central High School in 1939 and from Potomac State College in Keyser in 1941.

In 1946 he received his LL.B. degree at graduation exercises at the University of Maryland. From 1943 to 1946 he served in Army Intelligence and was special agent in charge of the State of Virginia.

From 1949 to 1953 he managed the Cumberland office of the Social Security Administration and became assistant state's attorney in 1953. Five years later he was elected state's attorney.

Westernport Native Now Directs Program In Korea

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A native of Westernport is having an opportunity this year to serve as a practical ambassador of good will to Korea.

He is Richard G. Patrick son of Mr. and Mrs.

Julian G. Patrick, 310 Maryland Avenue, Westernport. He is chairman of a committee, composed chiefly of Korean electrical engineers, which is setting up a program for the rehabilitation of generation and transmission of electricity in that country.

A graduate of Bruce High School in Westernport, Mr. Patrick attended the University of Maryland one year. He then was transferred by the U.S. Navy to Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., where he was graduated as an electrical engineer in 1945.

Mr. Patrick is a registered professional engineer employed by Commonwealth Associates Inc., Jackson, Mich. He was sent by his company for one year's service in Korea. In his capacity he serves on the United States Overseas Mission.

The work of Mr. Patrick's committee is of major importance because it is attempting to repair the damage to electrical facilities caused by three years of war in that Oriental land.

Mr. Patrick is married to the former Miss Nedra Dawson of Lake. They and their daughter, Carolyn, reside in the United Village near the U.S. Eighth Army Base at Seoul.

The picture of Mr. Patrick and the other members of his inductive coordinating committee appeared in a recent issue of "The Electrical Press," a Korean language paper which Mr. Patrick's parents received in their home in Westernport.

This Korean language paper offered another illustration of the small size of today's world. Another picture in this tabloid size paper was of the radio research laboratory now being developed a little over 100 miles from Cumberland at Sugar Grove, W. Va.

Mr. Patrick's daughter also is lending a hand in this good will program in Korea. A sixth grader in the American School at the Eighth Army Base, she is also a Girl Scout. She and other American Girl Scouts in Korea are planting tree seedlings on Falling Water Mountain near the

West Virginians Hospitalized After Accident

Car Demolished Near Moorefield

Two West Virginians were admitted to Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning with injuries sustained in a one-car accident late Saturday night on U.S. Route 220 about seven miles north of Moorefield.

Loring D. Heiner, 27, owner of the car, sustained a laceration on his chin and complained of pains in his chest. His condition is satisfactory.

Mrs. Rowena Rinker, 31, of Purgettville, who also was injured, is reported in "satisfactory" condition.

West Virginia State Police, who are still investigating the accident, said they got a call about 11:30 p.m. (EDT). The car, they said, went out of control on a slight curve after the driver had ascended a downgrade.

The auto careened to the right of the highway, went down over an embankment, ripped out three or four railings of a wire fence and apparently turned over before coming to a stop in a field.

Police said the old model car was demolished. It traveled about 250 feet into the field. The two persons were brought here by ambulance.

Cpl. C. G. Hamrick and Trooper Jack Baker, stationed at Moorefield, are investigating the accident which occurred while the auto was headed north toward Purgettville.

Mrs. G. M. Smith Dies Suddenly In Hospital

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Smith, 48, wife of G. Morgan Smith, 843 Braddock Road, died yesterday afternoon in Memorial Hospital where she was admitted earlier in the day.

Mrs. Smith, who was active in church and civic affairs, was taken ill about 5 a.m. and died at the hospital at 2 p.m.

A native of Cumberland, she was a daughter of Mrs. Gertrude (Sincell) Matheny and the late Harry Matheny, who was a former Allegany County Commissioner.

Mrs. Smith was past president of the Woman's Civic Club and recently was elected to the club's board of directors. She was a member of Centre Street Methodist Church and was a teacher in the church's Sunday School program.

A graduate of Allegany High School, Mrs. Smith also graduated from Hood College in Frederick. She also was a member of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women and served as co-chairman of the association's "Great Books" group.

Surviving, besides her mother and husband, are a daughter, Marjorie Russell Smith, at home. The body is at the John J. Hafer Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, U. S. Route 40 and Braddock Road, where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Services will be conducted at the funeral home Wednesday at 11 a.m. by Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Wettest May Recorded Here

Cumberland had the wettest May in history according to recollections of Robert Golden, weather observer here, who has been keeping records since 1912.

He said that up until yesterday morning 7.37 inches of rain had fallen. This figure does not include the 29th, 30th and 31st of the month.

Back in 1924, he said, 7.34 inches of precipitation fell in Cumberland.

Rainy miserable weather is forecast for today when the temperature is expected to reach a high in the mid to upper 60s.

Rotary Club To Meet At Amelle Plant

The Cumberland Rotary will hold its weekly meeting tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. at the administration building of the Amelle plant of the Celanese Fibers Company.

The service club will have dinner at the plant and will tour the facilities.

Highway Death Pace Slackens

Count Drops Behind Record Rate

By The Associated Press

Safety officials began to look on the bright side Sunday when, for the first time this three-day Memorial holiday weekend, the traffic death toll dropped behind the pace of record statistics rolled up two years ago.

"The pace has slackened," a National Safety Council spokesman said, "to the point where there's good reason to believe we can stay below the 1958 figures—that is, if drivers continue to show good sense."

Over the comparable 1958 Memorial weekend, the most recent which also lasted 78 hours, a record 371 persons met death on the highways.

Well into the second half of this year's holiday period, reports of fatalities on an hourly basis kept ahead of the 1958 figures. As each hour passed, an average of nearly four highway deaths was ticked off. The spokesman commented: "There is only one sane way to slow it down and that is for every driver to drive as his common sense tells him to drive."

Before the traditional weekend kick-off to the annual vacation season got under way, at 6 p.m. Friday, the council estimated 375 lives could be lost by the end of the period, midnight Monday. It noted that at one point or another over the holiday, nearly all of the nation's 73 million automobiles would be on the move.

For comparative purposes The Associated Press ran a 78-hour nonholiday survey of traffic deaths from 6 p.m. Friday, May 13, until midnight Monday, May 16. The results showed 330 traffic deaths, 20 more than the council estimated for a typical nonholiday period at this time of the year.

Last year, when the Memorial weekend was a two-day affair, 310 lives were lost in traffic.

In other categories of memorial holiday weekend fatalities this year, boating accidents, drownings and miscellaneous accidents likewise took their destructive toll.

Photos Indicate Mystery Object Old Shipwreck

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Television pictures indicate a mysterious object on the ocean floor is the wreckage of a barge, Capt. Sam Loomis, Key West naval base chief of staff, said Sunday.

Loomis said the wreckage is encrusted with coral, indicating it has been there a long time.

The officer said first pictures were of poor quality, but more have been taken and will be processed Sunday.

Naval sonar equipment on a minesweeper detected the object in 430 feet of water 25 miles southeast of the American Shoals light.

When the object was first discovered there was speculation it might be a submarine, but Loomis is knocked down that theory. "The object is not a submarine," he said.

SEATO Talks Set Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Top statesmen from four continents began gathering here Sunday to survey how to keep peace in the world after the failure of the summit conference.

Scheduled to attend the meeting, which opens Tuesday, were the prime ministers of Australia and New Zealand, and the foreign ministers of Great Britain, France, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand and the United States.

They are coming here for the sixth conference of the SEATO alliance which aims to save South-eastern Asia from Communist subversion or open attacks.

Whether Communist China will now unleash new adventures in the southeastern area was the main topic for discussion, especially with reports of new threats of Communist infiltration in Laos, South Viet Nam and the possibility of renewed assaults on Quemoy or Matsu.

But the Europeans in the conference are expected to consult with Secretary of State Christian Herter also about the outlook in Europe after the Soviets refused to confer at the summit in Paris except on their own terms.

Miss Germany Elected

BADEN-BADEN, Germany (AP)—Ingrid Helgard Moeckel, an 18-year-old music student, was elected Miss Germany 1960 Sunday. She barely speaks German since she spent most of her life in New Zealand. Blonde, blue-eyed Miss Moeckel is 5 feet 10 and the customary measurements are 34-22-36.

Rhee Leaves Korea, Flies To Honolulu

Fallen Leader Seen
Living Rest Of Days
In American Exile

SEOUL (UPI)—Political foes said good riddance to former President Syngman Rhee Sunday with charges he was a dictator and predictions that he would spend the rest of his days in American exile.

There were few public tears for the 85-year-old fallen leader whose 12 years in power spanned the formation of the Republic of Korea. Members of the Democratic Party, which had been Rhee's opposition, charged he was "escaping," and a number of Democrats demanded punishment for those who helped Rhee and his Austrian-born wife leave the country.

The government of acting President Hugh Chung was expected to come under fire in the National Assembly for permitting the former president to leave.

Chang Demands Explanation

Rhee and his 56-year-old wife, Francesca, took with them four suitcases and two small overnight bags. The baggage was checked by a customs officer.

Former Vice President John M. Chang, whose defeat in a rigged election last March by Rhee candidate Lee Ki-Poong caused the student riots that brought Rhee's downfall, demanded an explanation from the caretaker government.

Rhee flew off to Honolulu with charges mushrooming that he had misused public funds.

Vice-finance Minister Kim Yong Kap charged in the National Assembly Saturday that "Dr. Rhee misappropriated $19,900,000 during his 12-year rule. I can show details if they are asked for."

Democratic Party Floor Leader Kim Yi Taik said Rhee's departure was "the natural course for a dictator to take."

To "Take A Rest"

Only a handful of people saw Rhee off. Among them was acting President Hugh, who said the Rhees were going to "take a rest."

The U. S. Embassy was said to have played part in arranging the trip. The Rhees were given standard passports, with visas good for three months.

But most opposition leaders said they believed Rhee, whose health has been failing, would never come home again.

Rhee apparently decided himself to leave. There was no pressure on him, and no mention of even calling him in for questioning about irregularities during the regime of his Liberal Party.

Three Die In Crash At Coraopolis, Pa.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An auto sideswiped a parked car and smashed into a bridge abutment in nearby Coraopolis late Saturday night, killing three men.

Fatally injured were Andrew Burton, 38, the driver of the car, and passengers David Davis, 29, and William Wells, 57, all of Coraopolis.

Coraopolis is 20 miles north-west of Pittsburgh.

Book Claims Soviets Have Missing British Frogman

LONDON (AP)—A new controversy blew up Sunday around the case of Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb, a British wartime frogman who disappeared four years ago on an underwater spying mission in Portsmouth Harbor.

A book to be published here Monday, "Frogman Extraordinary," by J. Bernard Hutton, claims Crabb was captured alive by the Russians when he dived beneath a Soviet cruiser during the visit of Nikolai Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev in April 1956.

The book claims Crabb was taken back to the Soviet Union and so successfully brainwashed that he is now serving in the Red navy under the name of Lev Lvovich Korablov.

Hutton, a 48-year-old Czech-born journalist, says secret Soviet documents about the Crabb case were smuggled to him from behind the Iron Curtain.

Morton Given Political Boost By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said Sunday that if he isn't the GOP vice presidential nominee he would like to see the honor go to Republican National Chairman Thurston B. Morton.

Goldwater said he would accept the post if it was offered but that he didn't think it would be. For one thing, he said his state of Arizona joins California, the home state of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the probable GOP presidential candidate.

He said on a radio program (Mutual-Reporters Roundup) the proximity of the two states, tucked away in the southwest corner of the country, would hurt him some but that there were "other factors" too. He did not elaborate on them.

Asked who would make the strongest GOP vice presidential candidate, he named Morton. He said the GOP chairman and Kentucky senator comes from "a state which is correct geographically—it's neither deep south or north, and it's neither east or west."

Also, he said, Morton "is a very effective campaigner and is very well known across the country."

Goldwater, a self-styled conservative, said he believes Adlai E. Stevenson will be the Democratic presidential nominee for the third time.

As senatorial campaign chairman, Goldwater said it's arithmetically impossible for the GOP to regain control of the Senate. But he said "I believe we can pick up from two to four seats," in Wyoming, West Virginia, Michigan and possibly Montana.

"The Republicans can retake" the House, he added, but "I'd have to admit it has its problems" to have Congress controlled by different political parties.

Eisenhower Prays For U.S. War Dead

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower prayed Sunday for America's heroic war dead. And his pastor declared, "No price is too great to be spared conquest, occupation and slavery."

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower drove through light rain from their farm to 8:30 a.m. services at the United Presbyterian Church in Gettysburg. They are spending the Memorial Day weekend at their country place.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church had designated this Sunday before Memorial Day as a day of intercession.

U.S. Doesn't Regard Nikita As Supreme Dictator Like Stalin

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Assistant Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding said Sunday the State Department regards Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as a man responsible to others in the Kremlin rather than as a Stalin-like supreme dictator.

While Khrushchev is "maybe head and shoulders" above other Soviet officials, Berding said, he still "can't go it alone." He said that during the recent summit gathering someone from Khrushchev's entourage took down every word he said in public or private interviews.

Berding's statement came as members of Congress continued debating in public the pros and cons of the Paris summit collapse and the U-2 plane incident that preceded it. There were these developments:

—Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Wis.) was asked on a radio program (Radio News Conference—News Associates, Inc.) whether President Eisenhower knew about the U-2 flight just before the summit.

He replied: "There are three stories as you know: the weather story, the President didn't know story, the President did know story. I believe the story that the President didn't know."

—Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) said the President always has been reluctant to go to summit conferences, but "the British pleaded with him and persuaded him to go" into the recent Paris meeting. Scott said any more summit meetings should be held only to ratify something already agreed upon.

—Sen. Joseph S. Clark (R-Pa.) appeared on a radio-TV program with Scott, said the Eisenhower administration gave Khrushchev "a wonderful opportunity" to wreck the summit meeting, although the Soviet chief probably wanted to do it anyway.

—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said during a radio interview (Mutual-Reporters Roundup) that he considered it a "mistake" for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to hold hearings on the U-2 incident and the summit collapse. He said secret information about this country's intelligence-gathering activities was bound to "leak out."

The committee, which heard Secretary of State Christian A. Herter last Friday, resumes its inquiry Tuesday with testimony from Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Transcripts of Herter's testimony were made public after they had been censored for security reasons. However, there will be no public transcript of Dulles' testimony.

Latest reports reaching here Sunday night from outlying areas said 50 longot natives also drowned Saturday when their huts were washed away by a swollen river in Central Nueva Ecija Province.

Scores of other persons still were missing in the wake of the flood disaster as President Carlos P. Garcia cut short a visit to the Southern Philippines to coordinate relief work in the devastated Manila area.

The official Philippine Constabulary count placed the known dead at 115 persons and said 46 were missing. The Manila Times, however, said rescue workers had recovered 413 bodies.

A Red Cross spokesman placed the number of homeless at 15,440. But he said it was "impossible to estimate the number of 'missing persons.'"

Filipino Red Cross constabulary rescuers dug the dead Sunday from debris in Manila, Quezon City and five nearby towns where rampaging floods from the denuded Montaban-Marikina mountains cut a path of destruction in the lowlands.

Quakes Still Rock Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—The earth heaved and buckled for the eighth straight day Sunday in devastated southern Chile causing new panic and tumbling buildings damaged by earlier quakes and floods.

Huge U. S. Air Force C-124 Globemaster transports came in through a steady rain to land at Santiago and Puerto Montt with part of 400 tons of emergency aid being sent under "Operation Samaritan."

Some two million Chileans were homeless in the quakes that began a week ago Saturday and continued throughout the week, triggering tidal waves that wiped out whole villages.

The steady rain — this is Chile's rainy season — added to the misery.

A series of shocks Saturday night and Sunday, ranging from weak to "very strong," jarred a 150-mile area from the city of Concepcion to Angol.

There was panic, but no new casualties were reported. The toll remained at more than 6,000 persons killed during the week.

Israel Planning Showcase Trial For Eichmann

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, (AP)—Israel has begun setting up a showcase trial for Adolf Eichmann, charged with sharing major responsibility for the slaughter of six million European Jews. The trial is expected to run about a year and Eichmann expects to be doomed.

Israeli authorities probably will stage the trial in a big hall in Jerusalem. It is certain to delve into the whole Hitlerite German operation of gas chambers and concentration camps.

Eichmann, whose arrest by Israeli secret service agents has been cloaked in mystery, is relaxed now, following the initial shock of his capture after 15 years on the run.

He is said to regard himself as a doomed man, but believes he has a responsibility toward history to throw light on the Nazi effort to effect "a final solution of the Jewish question."

Reports from Buenos Aires said Israeli agents picked him up in Argentina and smuggled him out on an Israeli airliner that carried delegates to Argentine Independence Day celebrations.

Although he is now depicted as one of the most infamous criminals of all time, the Israeli public knew relatively little about Eichmann or the relentless hunt for him.

Even his origins are uncertain. Nazi files show Eichmann was born in Solingen in the Ruhr area, March 19, 1906. But there are persistent reports he was born a year earlier in Austria. Others say he was born near Tel Aviv.

Premier David Ben-Gurion electrified Parliament last week by announcing his capture.

Israelis are horrified by stories that have since cropped up.

There's the story by Joel Brand, a wartime Jewish agency official, who testified in another court case that Eichmann offered to trade the lives of a million Jews in return for 1,000 tons of coffee and tea and 10,000 trucks from the Allies. The offer was spurned.

Then there's a report from Frankfurt by the prosecutor of the state of Hesse. He presented a letter written to SS Reich leader Heinrich Himmler in which Eichmann was commended for "de-jew" Austria.

Red Base Firm, U.S. Must Change, Eaton Declares

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Communist states. Earlier this month he was awarded the Lenin Peace Prize in Moscow for his efforts to promote better understanding between the Soviet Union and the United States.

He said future U.S. foreign policy should be based on respect for other forms of government and that all propaganda vehicles such as Radio Free Europe and the Voice of America should be abolished.

"I am one who firmly believes that Nikita Khrushchev wants peace," he declared. "It is tragic that he now has a lack of confidence in President Eisenhower as a result of the spy plane incident. But Khrushchev is an intelligent man and if he gets the right response from the United States, we will get somewhere."

Provisional Cabinet Gets On With Job

Deposed Menderes
Might Be Taken To Island Navy Base

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—The Turks appeared calm, matter of fact and ready to move ahead Sunday under a new government of military men and civilian specialists headed by Lt. Gen. Cemal Gursel as president-premier.

The provisional Cabinet which Gursel formed Saturday to succeed that of deposed ex-Premier Adnan Menderes, started study of the immense post-revolt problems. The Cabinet will hold its first formal meeting Monday.

The atmosphere of Ankara, headquarters of the military coup which ended Menderes' 10-year authoritarian rule Friday, was relaxed.

Small groups of students occasionally banded together for cheerful demonstrations. Broken windows and scattered files at Menderes' former Democratic party headquarters gave evidence of their earlier fervor. The military coup came after weeks of demonstrations by students for greater freedom.

In the Turkish crisis, one of the immediate problems is economic. Diplomats said there is evidence the country is nearly broke again, despite receipt of a 50-million-dollar loan from West Germany only four weeks ago.

Menderes In Custody

Another in Political. Despite the apparent success of the coup, the tasks of revising the constitution and organizing free elections as promised appear formidable.

Ex-President Celal Bayar, Menderes and several members of his Cabinet were in protective custody at the Army War College here. Their wives were reported housed in Bayer's former presidential palace.

A report circulated that Menderes and some of his aides may be moved to Yassi Ada Island, a Turkish naval base in the Marmara Sea off Istanbul, to minimize the chance of any public disturbance. Military authorities declined comment.

Two members of the Menderes Cabinet—former Defense Minister Semi Ergin and former Health Minister Lufti Kirdar—were released. Also freed were 95 deputies of Menderes' Democratic party.

Not all the Democratic deputies were originally arrested, but usually reliable sources said more than 200 were detained.

Among others held were 12 generals and various federal and provincial officials. One was Alkemur Kilit, former press director for Menderes and former Turkish press attaché in Washington.

Officials of the new government did not say whether Menderes and his ministers would stand trial. Gursel himself has said there would be no punishment.

Records Checked For Misdeeds. Investigators were looking into records, however, to learn if there were any financial or other misdeeds.

Gursel is serving as his own defense minister.

Among the key personalities in the new Cabinet he named Saturday night is Selim Sarper, 61, a career diplomat and a graduate of the Istanbul law faculty, who becomes foreign minister. Sarper is a veteran of 33 years in the Turkish foreign service. Among his most recent posts were assignments to the Turkish delegation to the United Nations and to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. His last post was as secretary general of the Foreign Ministry in Ankara.

The new finance minister, 44-year-old Ekrem Alican, is a graduate of the Istanbul University College of Political Science. He studied economics in London and is known in Turkey as a brilliant economist. Once a member of the Democratic party, he left it in the mid-50s to help in the founding of the small opposition Freedom party.

Verwoerd To Air Views

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Demands are building up here and abroad for Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd speaks Tuesday at Bloemfontein in Orange Free State, center of jubilee 50th anniversary celebrations of the founding of the South African union.

During the period of his invalidism Verwoerd has been bombarded more and more by businessmen to ease his government's apartheid—racial segregation—policies, which resulted in the black revolt here and brought condemnation from much of the world.

Businessmen are being severely pinched by foreign trade boycotts, by "disinvestments" from abroad through foreign shareholders selling out here, and by growing fear among foreigners to invest in enabling him to continue to lead South Africa while racial unrest.

He has publicly attributed his survival to "divine providence," and South Africa on the course of racial segregation—which he deems time.

Tawes Names Three To Full Terms On SRC

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes has reappointed three members of the State Roads Commission and complimented all seven members of the recently reorganized group for serving "capably and with vision."

Those named to full, four-year terms, upon expiration of their one-year terms on the commission, were:

Paul J. Bailey, 54-year-old lawyer and former state senator from Leonardtown, representing Southern Maryland; Harley P. Brinsfield, 51, Baltimore City restaurant owner, and William B. Owings, 56, who operates a farm in Howard County and also represents Baltimore and Harford counties.

Announcing the reappointments Saturday, the governor said of the SRC members:

"They have proven their ability to work well together, and I feel it is my duty to make every effort to keep them together."

"The experience of the past 12 months during which the State Roads Commission has charted a bold course toward giving Maryland a first-rate system of modern highways in the shortest possible time has reaffirmed my belief in the soundness of the reorganization plan."

The governor also announced appointment of Richard W. Case, a Baltimore attorney, to the University of Maryland Board of Regents, and he reappointed B. Herbert Brown of Baltimore to the board. Both terms are for seven years.

Students Have Scare As Trains Sideswipe

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Some Ohio high school students on their way home from Washington had a scare Saturday night when a passing freight train sideswiped their special tourist train.

Only one of the 197 students from the Cincinnati area was injured as a coal car of the freight smashed out windows while whizzing by the Baltimore and Ohio six-car passenger train.

Charlotte Dickman cut her hand and a doctor brought aboard the train at Brunswick, Md., took several stitches in it.

A B&O spokesman said the coal car on the eastbound freight buckled and smashed several windows on the passenger train. The damaged cars were replaced and the children transferred at Brunswick.

The tourist train was running about three hours late when it resumed the trip to Cincinnati.

Dark Memory Of Tragic Day In 1956

By DAN PERKES

SIGOURNEY, Iowa (AP)—The mournful wail of a train whistle rebounded off the rolling green hills surrounding this small southeastern Iowa town.

Richard Hammes, 49, swung his head toward the direction of sound and murmured, "They're blowing the whistle longer ever since the children."

His voice trailed off in a whisper as he remembered a day back in October, 1956, when his world almost stopped. Among all who remember on this Memorial Day, few carry tragic recollection of the weight borne by Richard Hammes.

On Oct. 26, four years ago, Mrs. Hammes was driving the family automobile toward a country schoolhouse when it collided with a Rock Island freight train at a blind crossing just northeast of their home.

In the car with her were the Hammes' eight children, 9-year-old twins Ronnie and Donnie; Karen, 8; Linda, 7; Gary, 6; Rosemary, 3; and Rickie and Vicky, 1-year-old twins.

Seven of the children were killed outright in the crash. The eighth died a short time later at the county hospital in Sigourney.

Mrs. Hammes survived one of the worst traffic accidents in Iowa history.

More than a year later, the birth of a son, Myron, helped the Hammes forget a bit about the tragic past.

They worked hard at rearing their son and building up the family business—wool, fur and hide buying and farming.

Then tragedy struck a second time.

Mrs. Hammes, 41, died last April 18 of a heart attack just before scheduled birth to what would have been the Hammes' second child of their new family.

"The doc said her heart was just too heavy with grieving about the children. It had to give," Hammes said in a faltering voice. Hammes recalls the past like a man awakening from a frightening dream and wondering whether what he dreamed about could be real.

Explained a sister, Cleo Konlin: "He doesn't understand why he should have to bear it all. We don't understand either. The answer is with God."

Hammes, his neighbors say, has been making remarkable recovery for a man whose large family, once his life, has been cut down.

"Richard is a very strong man—both mentally and physically. That helps," one neighbor remarked.

Hammes, his shock of red hair now flecked with gray, has found much of his gallantry for living in faith and prayer.

The sound of the train whistle carried over the hush hills to Sts.

The sun shines down brightly on Richard Hammes, but his memory is a dark one as he shoulders son Myron, 2, near their home in Sigourney, Iowa. Hammes remembers a day back in 1956 when his world almost stopped. At that time Hammes' wife, now dead, was driving family auto when it collided with a freight train near their home. In car with her were their eight children. Seven were killed outright. One died later. Myron was born after the tragedy. Later his mother died. (AP Photofox)

Peter and Paul Church, a small country parish located at Clear Creek, about 10 miles east of the Hammes place on Highway 92 about three miles east of Sigourney.

Next to the church is a small graveyard. Here the children and Mrs. Hammes are buried.

Perhaps Hammes finds some peace of mind in tranquil words inscribed on a memorial to the children in the same graveyard. They read:

"Now the Lord says, a voice is heard in Rama; it is Rachel weeping for her children and she will not be comforted for none is left; but thus He reassures thee. Sad eyes, weep no more; to their own possessions thy children shall return." (Jeremiah 31:15).

State Traffic Up 12.4%

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Roads Commission says traffic on Maryland highways last month increased 12.4 per cent over April 1959.

Traffic on the state's four toll facilities showed substantial gains, led by the 27.8 per cent increase on the Potomac River Bridge and the 24 per cent hike on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

London-To-Moscow Train On First Run

LONDON (AP)—Amid the suburban trains leaving London's grimy Liverpool Street station Sunday morning was a shiny new express: The 10:05 for Moscow. The inaugural first-class train is scheduled to reach the Soviet capital Tuesday evening after main stops in Berlin, Frankfurt-on-Oder, Warsaw and Minsk. Passengers have one change, for the English Channel steamer crossing.

Most of the passengers aboard Sunday were getting off at intermediate stops, but about 20 were booked all the way to Moscow. The London-Moscow express is to run four times a week in each direction. Round-trip fare is the equivalent of $134.12 with $61.60 additional for a sleeper and meals are extra.

Theologians View Espionage As Immoral But Necessary

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Spying is shady business, but it's needed for survival in a shady world.

That, in short, is the conclusion voiced by a number of religious authorities today, as nations seethed over the conduct of espionage.

"It belongs to that class of things that are morally ambiguous but sometimes necessary," says the Rev. Dr. Daniel D. Williams, of Union Theological Seminary.

Both Christian and Jewish scholars offer a similar view—that espionage involves questionable behavior, but that it may be warranted by overriding facts of international life.

"It's an immoral act for what we think is a moral purpose—the defense of our country and ideals," says Rabbi Dr. Robert Gordis, of Jewish Theological Seminary, New York. "It's a tragic necessity, at best."

In other words, it demands deception, stealth and other activity that impinges on ethical tenets, but which in the face of circumstances, may serve a greater, overbalancing good.

"You can't divorce moral practice from reality," says the Very Rev. Dean Edmund Benard, dean of the School of Sacred Theology of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

"In an ideal world, espionage would not be morally justified. But this isn't that kind of world. And if we must have certain information to protect our nation against threats and subversion, our government has an obligation to get it."

"If there is no other way, then we are justified in using espionage."

Down through history, the spy has left a dubious, shadowy image, immersed in doubledealing, masquerade, prying into the privacy of others under false pretenses and sham. But it has remained a standard trade of nations.

"It is part of the general immorality of war," Dr. Gordis says. "It is one of the instrumentalities of war, and represents a kind of suspension of ethical principles, the same as on the battlefield."

"It's part of the tragic dilemma of existing in a world that doesn't live by moral principles. It sheds light on the tragic moral devices inhering in our civilization in not fulfilling the purposes it believes in."

Both the godly and ungodly rulers of Biblical days used spies. Scripture also speaks of a contrast between "spies" and "true men." But it lays down no specific injunctions on the matter.

Goren On Bridge

Q. 1—As dealer you hold:

AK 10 2 ♥ KQ 7 4 3 ♦ Q 5 ♠ 10 8

What is your opening bid?

A.—This may be described as a hand of just moderate strength (it is worth 15 points). With these hands, care should be exercised to avoid getting up too high. If you treat both suits as of the same length, it will be more convenient to show them both at a reasonable level. The recommended bid, therefore, is one spade.

Q. 2—You have 70 part score.

Partner opens with one club and you hold:

AK 6 2 ♥ 8 5 ♦ KJ 6 3 2 ♠ 10 6 4

What do you bid?

A.—Altho this hand does not theoretically contain the values required to do so with a call of one diamond, Partner may be in a position to rebid one spade, which would complete the game. Or if partner should rebid two clubs, you should hardly expect to be come involved in debts beyond the limits of your allowance. In situations of this type it is well to keep up appearances. A pass by you might inspire the opposition with too much confidence.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AK 6 ♥ K 7 6 ♦ AQ J 7 5 ♠ QJ 7

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♦ 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—You have somewhat more than an opening bid, but not enough to justify great enthusiasm. You have a choice of rebidding diamonds or bidding one no trump. The latter bid is chosen because it is important to show the heart stopper.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♥ 10 9 7 5 ♦ Q 10 9 8 ♠ KQJ 9

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—This hand has enormous possibilities. You should bid three clubs which modern practice decrees as absolutely forcing despite your previous pass. We deem this bid as slightly superior to the alternative bid of four hearts.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, opponent opens one spade and you hold:

AKJ 3 ♥ AJ ♦ AKQ 5 3 ♠ 10 5 4

What do you bid?

A.—One no trump. This is preferable to overcalling with two diamonds. If partner hasn't very much, you might as well play it at one no trump. If he has some strength and chooses to give you 2 raise, you will have a good chance for game.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

AK 2 ♥ KQ 7 5 2 ♦ ♠ A 10 6 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. This hand is not far removed from an opening bid. Partner has opened the bidding and made a super-jump. A slam is, therefore, highly probable in one of your suits. The four club bid is a one round force and a slam try.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

AK 7 ♥ AKQ 10 7 3 ♦ Q 3 2 ♠ 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass 3 ♦ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 4 ♥ Pass

4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Seven hearts. Partner's immediate slam try of three diamonds (in which suit you hold the queen) and his subsequent willingness to show the ace of clubs, despite the fact that he has no high heart honor, make it clear that the diamond suit is solid and will provide discards for declarer's losers.

Q. 8—You are South and hold:

AK 5 ♥ Q 7 ♦ AQJ 10 7 6 ♠ 7 5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♦ Pass

2 ♥ Pass 3 ♦ Pass

4 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

(Look for answers Monday)

A.—The this may sound quite strange, we recommend contracting for game in diamonds. It is true the argument may be advanced that, by bidding two diamonds and rebidding the suit, you have already done full justice by your hand; but nevertheless, certain facts have come to light which did not appear at the outset of this hand. You have since learned that partner probably has a singleton club and, furthermore, you have good reason to regard with considerable respect the value of the queen of hearts. In view of partner's strong bidding, it is not unreasonable to gamble on holding your losses to one club and one trick in the major suit. (Copyright, 1960, The Chicago Tribune)

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Kitchen capers are serious business

among the nation's nine million teenage damsels.

The fact that one out of three mothers works outside the home contributes to the realistic atmosphere as the young ladies face the test of battle in the kitchen.

In these households especially, the teenage cook ties on the apron strings under front-line conditions. But even the non-working mother depends on teenage hands in the kitchen—be they on the potato-peeling detail or the ones sent into the super market to shop.

This contemporary picture of the female teenager's influential position when she ties on the apron strings is by way of a magazine (Seventeen) survey on the relative power of the young miss in the kitchen.

Marketing experts, supported by depth probers, have found enough in the way of facts to confer on the nation's teenage girls the status of "acting home manager."

They credit the teenage miss with savvy when operating around the home range, but they also make the point that the teenage cooks have more than purses packed with pin money for mad fancies.

That is — the young ladies help to decide how the family's basic food money is spent. This is a departure from the image holding that the teen-age girl is, in the main, a party-giver. Supporting the view that the food shopping, And strengthening the view that marketing purse strings in her the teenagers plan and cook family, the survey found that 89 meals, the survey probers reported per cent of the Teen Magazine's ed that 97 per cent of the teen-readers help to do the family's agers in the sampling plan all or part of the family meals.

County Gets Report On Project

The Allegany County Board of U. S. Bureau of Public Roads Commissioners has received a memorandum from John R. Funk, chairman of the State Roads Commission, pertaining to the Mexico Farms Road relocation project. The project, which is a part of the new marshalling yards are located. The roadway will have a four-inch crusher run stone base and two and one-half inches of both asters and leafhoppers, the bilituminous concrete surfacing. Approximately 50 per cent of the cost will be paid by the federal government through the plant and animal kingdoms.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have both worked hard and long to have a lovely home—all paid for. We recently put down beautiful inlaid linoleum in the vestibule, corridors and family room. I cried when I saw the hundreds of little nicks all over. I phoned the floor-covering firm that sold us the linoleum and they said they could do nothing but recommend a heavy wax. The nicks cannot be removed. Do you think it would be all right to ask the women guests to remove their shoes when they enter our home? —H.A.

DEAR H.A.: Not unless you're having a Japanese costume party. Floors are to walk on. You can't ask guests to remove their shoes because you're concerned about the linoleum. You should have investigated the durability of the material before you made the investment. Some people are willing to sacrifice practicality for beauty's sake. (Example: White carpeting in Chicago.) A heavy coating of wax will help cover the nicks and protect the floor somewhat against future scarring.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had a very wonderful boy friend and we had a grand steady-relationship all through our sophomore year in high school. My dream situation turned into a horrible nightmare when the girl I considered my best friend stole him away under my very nose. Now they're together all the

LONACONING — Mrs. Nellie B. Miller of 70 Douglas Avenue, was installed as state councilor at the State Daughters of America Council of Maryland public installation at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, before approximately 400 Daughters of America members from Lonaconing, Frostburg, Gaithersburg, Baltimore City, and national officers of Georgia, Kentucky, Ohio, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Her home council, Pride of Lonaconing Council No. 96, Daughters of America, conducted the ritual installation ceremonies and executed a fancy drill exhibition. A presentation of boutonniere formed as an old fashioned nosegay, for a monetary gift, was made to Mrs. Miller.

The newly installed assistant state councilor, Alfred Chesney, was presented a bow tie formed as a monetary gift. The past state councilor, Mrs. Edna M. Engle was pianist for the entire installation ceremony at Baltimore.

The distinguishing honor of Mrs. Miller's appointment as presiding officer this year is, that in the 64 years of existence, she is the first state councilor outside of a five mile radius of Baltimore.

Mrs. Nellie B. Miller will be presiding officer at the next session, which will be the 65th anniversary meeting.

The orchid flower will be the sixty-fifth anniversary symbol; the Twenty-Third Psalm will be the spiritual theme; "B-u-i-l-d" will be the slogan; "Golden Rule" will be the motto Mrs. Miller said.

In her speech she stated, "my slogan will be a five letter word."

MRS. NELLIE B. MILLER

"Build." There are so many things to build, alone or together. When we pray and our prayers are in earnest, we build a bridge from our heart to the heart of God. When we give of our goodness, our love, our kindness and our resources, we are building a bridge to the fellowship of mankind."

She was first elected to state office in 1957, having been a member of the Pride of Lonaconing Council No. 96, Daughters of America, since 1932. She has worked on various committees through the years.

Her new duties will take her through the state of Maryland, and also to the national session to be held in October at Atlanta, Ga.

The Meaning Of Memorial Day

History has laid upon the conscience of the American people a continuing obligation to the memory of those who died in the nation's defense. As a symbol of fulfilling this duty, on Memorial Day flowers are placed on soldiers' graves.

Can those so honored benefit by this good intent? Faith through the ages has promoted the hope that in some degree loved ones gone beyond can be reached by expressions of loving memory. Faith is a mighty force in human affairs.

Perhaps it is well for our peace of mind that the soldier dead can not speak to us. Certainly they could speak with the authority of patriotism's highest fulfillment. To that cause "they gave the last full measure of their devotion."

What can they reveal to us in the light of that higher plane of understanding to which faith in immortality says they have been transplanted? Could they show us that way which so long has been sought by humanitarians, whereby human problems could be solved without human bloodshed?

When we pay homage to the American soldier, we are not concerned merely with his great deeds and the victories he won. It is the fact that he went where his country asked him to go, and suffered what his country's need required him to suffer, that is important.

Memorial Day brings no pride of conquest—except for our pride in the American soldier's eternal conquest of himself, his ability to beat down fear and thought of self and face the fortunes of battle.

As we decorate the graves of the heroic dead, let us listen in our inner consciousness for their instruction and admonition. Let us "highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

The Congress

During 1960 not only will a President be elected but also members of the Senate and the entire House of Representatives. Whereas the office of the President is more dramatic than that of a Senator or a Representative, at times the success of an important measure can be delayed or vitiated in the Congress. Much depends upon Congressional leadership of either party whether a program passes through Congress. Therefore, it is necessary to note closely who runs this year.

For instance, on the Republican side, some of the most important Senators will come up for re-election this year. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, the leader of the Republican Party in the Senate, is up for re-election. It is to be assumed that he is in no danger; that he will be re-elected.

Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, one of the leading and most constructive members of the Senate, has been in Congress 21 years and in the Senate since 1948. A quiet man, Senator Mundt has a record of achievement of important service not only for his constituency but for the country. The probability is that he will be re-elected by South Dakota which has sent him to the Senate for two terms.

On the Democratic side, Senators James O. Eastland of Mississippi and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee come up for re-election. Eastland seems to be secure; Kefauver is not so secure. Senator Richard Neuberger of Oregon died and his wife is running in his stead. It is believed that she will be elected. The clobbering that Senator Wayne Morse got at the hands of Senator John Kennedy indicates either that Kennedy is more popular than Morse or that Morse, who has been a Republican and is now a Democrat, has outgrown his welcome. He remains in the Senate, however.

It is natural to note that the Senators who remain in service the longest and serve on useful committees have the widest influence in the Senate. The 10 Senators of the longest tenure are Carl Hayden of Arizona (since 1927); Richard B. Russell of Georgia (since 1933); Harry F. Byrd of Virginia (since 1933); James E. Murray of Montana (since 1934); Dennis Chavez of New Mexico (since 1935); Styles Bridges of New Hampshire (since 1937); Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana (since 1937); Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island (since 1937); Lister Hill of Alabama (since 1938); Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin (since 1939).

Tenure is very important in both Houses. In the House of Representatives, Sam Rayburn, the Speaker, began his service in 1913 and has served continuously for 24 terms. His tenure in the House is equaled only by Representative Carl Vinson. It is often said that only Southern Representatives have long tenures. This is not altogether correct. Two New York State Representatives have each served through 19 terms, that is, 33 years. They are Emanuel Celler and John Taber. Fifty three Representatives have been in the House of Representatives more than 10 terms; that is more than 20 years. This is a very long experience.

Senators and Representatives vary in interests, knowledge, aptitude. They are not, in any respect, required to represent the entire nation. They serve best when they limit themselves to the interests of a particular constituency, for then the Congress is a cross section of the nation.

Some Senators and Representatives are authorities, in their own right, of particular subjects. For instance, Representatives Walter H. Judd was a medical missionary in China. He is an expert in both fields, medicine and China. Senator Ernest Gruening, before he became a Senator, from Alaska, was the country's leading expert on Alaska. There are financial, agricultural, labor experts, all kinds of experts in the House and each specialist makes himself known to his colleagues by achievement.

When men work together for 20 or 30 years, seeing each other every day for prolonged periods each year, they come to know character, habits, capacities. They know each other's virtues and vices. After a while, their wives become friends and the families play together. Such a friendship has long existed between Sam Rayburn, Southern and Democratic, and Joe Martin, Northern and Republican, is not too unusual. Men of good will are often associated in great causes whatever their affiliations. Of course, in a large body of men there are always a few scoundrels. It is easy to discover who they are.

Hardly A Stairway To The Stars

Reds Planned To Wreck Summit Before U-2

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The big date in current history is April 25, 1960, and not May 1, when the U-2 was downed in the Soviet Union.

In view of what has happened since, extraordinary significance attaches to the speech delivered by Nikita Khrushchev at Baku on April 25, which was reported in a fragmentary way in the American press.

An examination of the Baku speech shows clearly that the Soviet government had come to the conclusion that it would get nowhere at the "summit" conference. Overnight all the government-controlled radio stations and newspapers in the Soviet Union began to prepare the people for a "summit" failure and flatly blamed the West.

The same bitter tone which Mr. Khrushchev used in Paris is to be noted in what he said at Baku in a violent attack on Secretary Herter and Under Secretary Dillon.

On that same day, the Soviet Premier intimated that he planned to use military power to enforce his prospective seizure of West Berlin. He said in part:

"If the Western powers refuse to sign a peace treaty with the German Democratic Republic, they will not retain the rights on the preservation of which they are insisting. They naturally will forfeit the right of access to West Berlin by land, water and air."

In another portion of his speech, the Soviet Premier practically admitted that he had no hope of reaching any agreement at the "summit" conference. He said:

"The nearer the day (May 16) the heads of governments are to meet, the more one-sided is the approach of certain statesmen of the Western powers to the problems before the conference..."

"Examples are not far to seek. Take a recent speech by the United States Under Secretary of State, Dillon, which is presented as a statement of the United States policy on the eve of the "summit" conference. That speech took the form of the 'cold war' spirit. Dillon's statement is more like a collection of trite inventions about the Soviet Union and the socialist countries than a responsible policy declaration..."

"Dillon tried to strike a note of ill will and suspicion on the very eve of the 'summit' conference when it is so essential that an atmosphere of international confidence should be created and maintained."

"Dillon referred to the 'summit' as a test of the good faith of the intentions of the Soviet Union, pretending that the outcome of the conference depends on the Soviet Union alone rather than on all of its participants..."

"To judge from the statement by Mr. Dillon, who is, clearly, no outsider in the government quarters of the United States, it comes out that the United States government will not be willing to reach an agreement on disarmament and on the ways of improving East-West relations unless its view on the Berlin question is accepted."

"Why, then, did Dillon have to make a statement so obviously out of tune with the tenor of relations between the U.S.S.R. and the United States since my conversations with President Eisenhower at Camp David?"

"I would not have touched on the statement by the United States Under Secretary of State if not for some other things which, unfortunately, find expression not only in word but also in deed, that put one on the lookout."

"The Soviet Premier then made a vehement attack on the disarmament negotiations and accused the West of refusing really to reach an agreement. He added:

"Consider a speech made by Mr. Herter, the man who heads the United States Department of State and consequently shapes the foreign policy of his country. The speech which he made in Chicago on April 4 can only be regretted..."

"Mr. Herter wants to engage us in discussions of the reunification of Germany, on holding some kind of plebiscites there, in discussions on questions which goods, and sharply reduced housing construction and sales are much on their minds."

They recall that America usually votes Democratic in periods of economic decline, and point to the recession year 1958 when the GOP took one of its worst drubbings at the polls.

If business should be on the skids by late this year, as some privately believe is likely, it would be virtually impossible for the Republican Party to elect its Presidential candidate, or increase its representation in the Senate or House.

PROSPERITY PEAK — Officially, government economists claim that American business conditions are reaching a peak of the current economic boom, and can be expected to continue on a high plateau for the rest of the year and well into 1961. Privately, however, there is growing concern that the peak actually has been passed, and there are some danger signals of serious slippage.

They won't talk about it for publication, but declining steel production, industrial lay-offs, contracting sales of autos, home appliances and other durable goods, and sharply reduced housing construction and sales are much on their minds."

Len Hall Persuaded Rockefeller To Drop Out Of Presidential Race

By Drew Pearson

Washington — The inside story of how Gov. Nelson Rockefeller was discouraged from running for president last December has never been told. Only a few people close to Len Hall, convivial ex-chairman of the Republican National Committee, know the story—and Hall won't talk about it.

Hall has probably shaped more political history in the last half dozen years than any other man in the USA. It was he who planned the strategy of persuading Ike, after his Denver heart attack, that it was only natural for a man with a heart condition to run for president. All of the President's family had decided he could not run. But Hall, an expert in psychology, called a press conference and took it for granted Ike would run. He kept at this strategy until the President finally accepted it.

Finally shrewd at human psychology on the negative side, it was Len Hall who persuaded Rockefeller six months ago, not to run. Rockefeller, however, never knew that it was Len Hall who did the persuading.

What happened between Ike's re-election in 1956 and Rockefeller's negative decision in December, 1960, was that Hall had suffered two personal disappointments. The first was handed him by Eisenhower, the second by Rockefeller.

Hall's Revenge
After re-electing Ike, Hall had hoped to be a member of the Cabinet, perhaps Secretary of Commerce. But the Justice Department cautioned the White House that Hall had got himself involved in the embarrassing Nicaro Nickel case in Cuba. He had demanded that Frederick H. Snare officials contribute heavily to the Republican party before they got a $43,000,000 contract to enlarge the Nicaro Nickel plant. To demand political contributions in return for a government contract is a criminal offense.

Hall was never prosecuted. Like so many other conflict-of-interest cases in this administration, he was eased gracefully out of Washington.

Back in New York, he cherished the ambition of becoming governor. In April 1958, however, Nelson Rockefeller decided to run for governor and his forces bulldozed Hall to the sidelines.

Two of Hall's ambitions thus were crushed. So very quietly he joined Nixon's forces. This was a terrific addition to the Nixon team, for Hall knows every Republican leader of any importance in the USA.

And last fall he put that acquaintance to good use—to block Rockefeller.

The minute Rockefeller announced his political tour, Hall would get on the long distance telephone to GOP leaders in the cities where the New York Governor was speaking. He laid down this strategy: "Give Rockefeller a cool reception. Be polite, but sit on your hands. Don't show a spark of enthusiasm. Let him know Republican leaders are all against him."

Hall kept the telephone going night and day. The strategy worked. GOP leaders were so cool that last December Rockefeller bowed out.

However, GOP leaders don't necessarily represent the rank and file of the Republican party. And more and more Republicans, though unorganized, are beginning to figure that if they are to win next November they need a fresh face on the ticket, especially one which hasn't straddled the Iron Curtain.

Behind The Scenes

The man who worked hardest to get the summit conference back on the track and was most disappointed at its failure was Harold Macmillan, Prime Minister of England.

Behind The Scenes

The man with the snowy hair leaped through the old magazines, turning the pages carefully so that they would not tear loose. The young fellow, dark and intense, pointed out the interesting items. They were looking at some copies of Harper's Weekly for the summer of 1964.

The older man is Eugene Mori, who built Garden State Race Track as a refuge for tired swans. The young one is Tommy Roberts, head of public relations for Mori. They were sitting in Mori's pine-paneled office at the track and, out front, an announcer was calling out a six-furlong race in flat monotone. The two men paid no attention. For the moment, they were interested in American history.

I sat with them, scanning the pages, because I believe that progress is best judged by looking backward over the shoulder. The magazines were yellowed and full of finely drawn line cuts showing battle actions in the final year of the War Between the States.

The advertisements, I thought, were the most interesting. Let me quote some:

"Book: Nineteen Beautiful Years or, Sketches of a Girl's Life. Written by her sister with an introduction by Rev. R. S. Foster. 90c." I'll bet that one never hit the best seller list.

"Asthma Cured. Relief guaranteed in ten minutes by Upham's Asthma Cure."

"Attention Soldiers! Clark's Ointment, a powerful stimulant warranted to produce a full set of whiskers or moustaches in six weeks. Price $1." "Ladies' Secret Letter. Five anatomical engravings. Has information never before published. Ten cents in a plain wrapper." Hmmm.

"Brandreth's Pills. The weak, the consumptive, rheumatic, bilious and delicate, after some days use, will find renewed strength and life pervade every organ of their frames. When first used, the pills may occasion griping, and even make the patient feel worse. This is an excellent sign, and shows the disease will soon be cured." It is possible, that, without knowing it, Dr. Brandreth had discovered instant boogie.

Fowler & Wells, a woman's store at 389 Broadway, New York, had the ladies flocking to their doors. The ad read: "Woman Doctor. How to be beautiful and healthy. Does he love me? The mitten, to whom and when to give it. The most dangerous eyes fully described. Self-control. Economy corsets etc."

Mori read these and didn't laugh. He is a remarkable man whose quiet, half smile has carried him from running an automobile agency in Vineland, N. J., on up to ownership of Tanforan Track (which he sold), Garden State, and a host of other ex-

Macmillan had virtually ricocheted back and forth between London and Washington, London and Moscow, trying to keep relations friendly between Khrushchev and Eisenhower. After Chancellor Adenauer came to Washington to persuade Ike to stand firm on Berlin, Macmillan flew to Washington to make sure Ike had not been too much swayed by Adenauer's argument.

Macmillan had a considered Khrushchev the best friend of the west in the Soviet orbit and tried to encourage him to be more democratic.

Describing one of his private conversations with Khrushchev to American officials, Macmillan said: "I told Mr. K 'You won't need to have rigged elections in Russia any more. You have given the Russian people a better standard of living and more history than any other man in history. You are not like Stalin who sat as if he was suspicious of the world. You could have real democracy in Russia.'"

"What was Khrushchev's reaction?" asked one American.

"He laughed and laughed," replied the British Prime Minister, "and seemed to like the compliment."

However, Macmillan is now reported very weary of his efforts to bring the Big Four together. The diplomatic grapevine has it that he will resign as Prime Minister of England toward the end of the year.

Behind The Scenes

The FBI has sent a battery of G-men to West Virginia to investigate reported vote-buying by Kennedy forces; also reports of large amounts of cash withdrawn from West Virginia banks just before the primary...

President Eisenhower likes to have Under Secretary Dillon accompany Secretary Herter whenever foreign policy is discussed at the White House. He has a lot of confidence in Dillon...

The American Embassy in Tokyo has appealed to Eisenhower not to cancel his good-will visit to Japan even though the Socialist opposition threatens riots and demonstrations. Any move to cancel the trip, the Embassy warns, would be regarded as a grave insult to the Emperor, who has invited him. It would also add tremendous prestige to the Socialists, who would then be known as the party which forced Eisenhower to cancel his visit.

Mori read these and didn't laugh. He is a remarkable man whose quiet, half smile has carried him from running an automobile agency in Vineland, N. J., on up to ownership of Tanforan Track (which he sold), Garden State, and a host of other ex-sive goodies, through a successful marriage and three children and six grandchildren.

This is a lot of mileage to get out of an enigmatic smile. Tommy Roberts and I were laughing ourselves into fits. One ad advertised "Violin Strings for Hot Weather." A man named John Lord promised $60 a month to responsible married men who would go out and sell his "everlasting pencils." To get a sweet breath, people bought Balm of a Thousand Flowers for 75c.

There was a new war song called "Dreaming of Home." The U. S. Government advertised $200,000,000 in war bonds at 5 per cent interest for 40 years. For travelers and selling men, S. W. H. Ward was selling steel collars for 75 cents, guaranteed not to soil. One of the jokes of the day, which split the sides of the city slickers was: "When a man is about to be cooked by cannibals, his very existence is at stake."

The drug laws of 1964 must have been a little loose because the Burnett Company advertised: "Cocaine for the hair, has demonstrated fifty imitations, all demonstrating the great popularity of the article." In the hair? This must have led to some wild scalp.

At the time these issues of Harper's were published, General U. S. Grant was fighting the battle of Cold Harbor; General William T. Sherman was at Marietta, Georgia, and Abraham Lincoln was in receipt of a formal notice that he had been nominated for a second term by the Republican Party.

The three of us sat looking at little mosaics of American history and, for a time, it was more interesting and less costly than watching the races. All of it happened only 96 years ago and, as we left the stack of magazines, I wondered if, that many years from now, someone would stare up at a skyscraper apartment house and say: "In the old days, they tell me, a race track used to stand on this spot."

Campus wits continue to dazzle their elders. Consider if you will these nuggets, all mined from a single issue of the ebullient U. of Texas Ranger:

1. HE: I feel as if we were engaged.
SHE: Yes, and you've got to stop it.

2. REAL ESTATE AGENT: Now this house I'm about to show you is without a flaw.

Pittsburgh Wins, 8-5, Tie Giants For First Place

Green Helps Law Rack Up 7th Triumph

Buccaneers Hand Philadelphia 6th Straight Setback

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vernon Law with the help of Fred Green in relief won his seventh game of the year Sunday for the Pittsburgh Pirates with an 8-5 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies. It was the Phillies sixth straight loss.

The victory moved the Pirates back into a tie for first place with the San Francisco Giants, who lost 4-1 to St. Louis in a game called at the end of five innings by rain.

Green, a 28-year-old southpaw, shut the door on the Phillies in the seventh by striking out pinch-hitter B. G. Smith with two aboard. Roberto Clemente's spectacular catch of pinch-hitter Pancho Herrera's sinking liner saved two runs earlier.

The game was delayed by rain for 16 minutes in the seventh inning.

Fastest Field in 44 Years To Vie In Indiana "500"

Indianapolis Race To Draw 200,000 Fans

New Speed Record Expected; Eyes On Rookie Hurtubise

By JERRY LISKA

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The fastest field in the death-fighting event's 44-year history should hurdle to a new speed record in the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race Monday.

A Memorial Day crowd of at least 200,000 jammed into the venerable "brickyard" may be treated to the most exciting 500 of all time as 33 drivers draw a head on the present race record of 135.875 miles an hour.

The roaring charge of daredevil pilots and sleek, finely tuned machines could produce the first rookie champion since 1927. The field qualified at a record average of 144.070, compared with the previous high of 143.06 in 1958.

Eyes On Rookie

All eyes will be on the lavender and purple car driven by 27-year-old Jim Hurtubise, who carries into his first 500 start a new four-lap record of 149.056 m.p.h. and a one-lap mark of 149.601 set in the qualifications. No rookie has won since George Souders' victory 33 years ago.

However, buried in the eighth starting row, Hurtubise of Lennox, Calif., will have to drive down three former champions including last year's winner, Rodger Ward, among a half dozen seasoned favorites.

Ward, who set the current record last year in the leadoff trio of the 11-three-car rows which will burst into snarling action shortly after speedway owner Tony Hulman dramatically pronounces: "Gentlemen, start your engines."

Holding the pole position is Eddie Sachs, Allentown, Pa., making his fourth 500 start, while in the middle of the first row is Jim Rathmann, Miami, Fla., 11 times a speedway starter and runner-up in 1952, 1957 and last year.

Rathmann Is Picked

Jim Rathmann Friday night was named favorite in the race by members of the champion 100-mile-an-hour club, composed of former finishers.

Other former winners include Troy Ruttman (1952) of Dearborn, Mich., and Jimmy Bryan (1958) of Phoenix, Ariz., starting in the sixth (second row) and 10th (fourth row) positions, respectively.

Bryan, who was left at the post last year because of clutch trouble, will drive the lightest and shortest car in the race, a yellow metal-al special. This has a horizontal engine, designed by George Sali, who also built the Belond Special which won the 1957 and 1958 races.

Tony Is Dean

Other hell-bent-for-grease veterans who may get the checkered victory flag include Tony Bettenhausen, the "dean" of the start-ers with 13 previous speedway appearances, and Johnny Thomson, third-place winner last year who is making his eighth start.

The field will be competing for a record purse of about $350,000 with the winning car harvesting more than $100,000. Ward last year earned a record $106,850.

Philippi Draws East Bank Team At Parkersburg

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — The West Virginia High School baseball tournament gets under way here Wednesday with Parkersburg meeting Philippi and East Bank facing Bluefield.

The finals will be played Thursday.

Bluefield advanced to the finals Saturday by trouncing Marlinton 10-2 behind the hitting of Dick Bourne in the Area 3 tourney.

East Bank, although getting only one hit, scored a 2-0 win over Man in the Area 4 title game.

Philippi beat Moorefield 6-5 Saturday to win the Area 2 title.

Parkersburg gained the state finals by blasting defending champion Weirton 11-1 Friday night in the Area 1 game.

Sunday Pen-Mar Tilts Postponed, Four Set Today

Fog, rain and wet grounds yesterday resulted in postponement of three games scheduled in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

Salisbury at Hyndman, Barreville at Flintstone and Centerville at Mt. Savage were the games postponed.

The Frostburg at Moorefield game scheduled yesterday because of the death in the family of a Moorefield player.

Rain washed out the Moorefield at Mt. Savage game set for Saturday.

Four Memorial Day contests are on tap for 2:30 p.m. They are Barreville at Mt. Savage, Flintstone at Moorefield, Salisbury at Grantsville and Hyndman at Frostburg.

The Pen-Mar Little League game at Centerville at 4 p.m., in which the final game of the 1960 season for the Allegheny County League and city championship contenders.

West was drafted for pro basketball by the Minneapolis Lakers and is expected to talk with them next week before making up his mind on who to play with.

Bucky Bolyard, a member of the WVU squad two years ago, also has received an offer from the Cleveland club, but has not yet decided whether to sign up.

The Pipers, by-the-way, will be here Aug. 10 for an exhibition game against the U. S. Olympic basketball team. West is a member of the Olympic squad.

Other former winners include Troy Ruttman (1952) of Dearborn, Mich., and Jimmy Bryan (1958) of Phoenix, Ariz., starting in the sixth (second row) and 10th (fourth row) positions, respectively.

Bryan, who was left at the post last year because of clutch trouble, will drive the lightest and shortest car in the race, a yellow metal-al special. This has a horizontal engine, designed by George Sali, who also built the Belond Special which won the 1957 and 1958 races.

Other hell-bent-for-grease veterans who may get the checkered victory flag include Tony Bettenhausen, the "dean" of the start-ers with 13 previous speedway appearances, and Johnny Thomson, third-place winner last year who is making his eighth start.

The field will be competing for a record purse of about $350,000 with the winning car harvesting more than $100,000. Ward last year earned a record $106,850.

Injured While Playing Knights Templar Plan Service Here Tomorrow

Diane Orlick, five, of National Highway, LaVale, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon after being injured while playing on a sliding board at home.

Antioch Commandery No. 6 Knights Templar, will observe Ascension Day tomorrow at 8 p.m. with a service in the asylum in the Masonic Temple, Greene Street.

The service will be opened with an address of welcome by Commander Joseph Davis, followed by the presentation of the flag by the color guard and the invocation. The principal address will be given by Rev. James E. Perry, pastor of LaVale Methodist Church.

An impressive Ascension service will be held at the church, consisting of a service in the morning, followed by a service in the evening. The service will be held at 8 p.m. with a service in the asylum in the Masonic Temple, Greene Street.

Rugs going into storage should be cleaned professionally, sprinkled liberally with moth crystals, rolled tightly, wrapped in heavy paper and sealed. Be sure they are stored in a cool place.

Garbage will not be collected today from residents of LaVale and Ellerslie who are serviced Monday and Thursdays by the Boch Hauling Service. It will be collected on Thursday.

All bids must be submitted in sealed envelopes marked "BID FOR MOTOR PATROL GRADER" on the outside of the envelope.

The County Commissioners of Allegany County, Maryland, reserve the right to select the equipment best suited for the County Roads Department and further reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

Patient In Hospital
Hugh A. Mullaney, of 209 Fayette Street, is reported in "fair" condition at Memorial Hospital in a pail of sand between eyes, where he was admitted Saturday.

Woman Hurt As Cars Crash

Mrs. Julia Newman, 54, of 521 Cumberland Street, yesterday was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital with injuries sustained in a two-car accident at the intersection of Virginia and Laing avenues about 4:55 p.m.

She suffered a head and facial injury and is in fair condition. Her husband, Cranston O. Newman, 57, driver of one of the cars was not injured, police said.

They said that Richard H. Brant, 28, of 4 Harrison Street, driver of the other car was not hurt. The couple was taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Police Officer William Morris said Brant, who was charged with reckless driving, was traveling north on Virginia Avenue and Newman was traveling east on Laing Avenue. Newman was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

Officer Morris, who was assisted by Officer J. A. Brown, said the four wheels of the Brant car, owned by Edward Hare, skidded about 45 feet on the pavement. Both cars were damaged considerably.

Retired Police Captain Dies
ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI)—Funeral services were held here Sunday for Arnold Moore, 64, a captain in the West Virginia State Police at the time of his retirement from the force in 1946.

Moore, who became police chief here shortly after leaving the State Police in March, 1946, died at his home Friday as result of a heart attack.

He joined the State Police in September, 1919, and was in command of Co. D at Beckley at the time of his retirement. He retired as police chief in 1949.

firemen's conventions.

Through the years he enjoyed getting out and marching along with the units but in recent years he seated himself comfortably in an automobile and passed along city streets heading the various parades.

He had many a chance to ride well-trained show horses but declined getting into the saddle and walked along the parade route.

Mr. Conlon has gotten good cooperation from his committees whose job was to help get the organizations lined up. He pointed out that during the Bicentennial celebration he had 100 committee members.

All the parades have been fun and enjoyment for the local postmaster who has held that office for about 12 years. In his scrapbooks he has many pictures and citations presented to him for civic activities.

city of Sangkey, 40 miles north of Seoul.

The Korean war almost wiped out the bubbling brooks, green slopes and tall trees on the mountain. During one month, Carolyn and 400 other Girl Scouts and other Americans seeded more than 600 acres.

This project is sponsored by the Korean chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America and United States Cub, Boy and Girl Scouts, who are helping with the planting.

The Westernport Patriots have received no word from their son of any personal difficulties coincident with the riots against the government of Korean President Syngman Rhee.

19 Countians Seek Degrees At Maryland

2,650 To Graduate There Saturday

Nineteen Allegany County residents are among more than 2,650 University of Maryland students from the College Park and Baltimore campuses who are candidates for degrees in commencement exercises to be held at College Park Saturday.

Other candidates for graduation include three from Garrett County, three from Keyser and one from Hancock.

During the ceremonies Saturday, University President Wilson H. Elkins will confer the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, who will be the guest speaker. Others to be honored are James A. Dingman, vice president and chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, honorary doctor of engineering degree, and Dr. Robert E. Snodgrass, an anatomist and morphologist with the U.S. National Museum, honorary degree of doctor of science.

The Allegany countians include the following:

John J. McMullen Jr., 218 Fayette Street, University College, L.L.B. degree; Rosemary K. Hill, 301 Washington Street, graduate, M.S., and Josephine Q. Frase, 163 Bowery Street, graduate, M. Ed.

The following 13 are candidates for bachelor of science degrees:

Megan S. Muller, RFD 2, arts and sciences; Robert R. Parker, 571 Patterson Avenue, arts and sciences; Lucille E. Wanless, 602 Braddock Avenue, arts and sciences; Henry J. Glick, 120 N. Smallwood Street, pharmacy; Julianne C. Kelly, 727 Maryland Avenue, business and public administration; Fern E. Kenney, 578 Bedford Street, pharmacy; Henry A. King, 1822 Bedford Street, business and public administration; Eleanor Murphy, 881 Ridgedale Avenue, education; Dale E. White, 29 Wempe Drive, agriculture; Shirley J. Hendricks, Flintstone, education; John Weires, Weires Avenue Extended, LaVale, education; Eldon L. Nicol, Charleston Street, Lonaconing, home economics, and Thomas W. Gaughan, Columbia Avenue, Mt. Savage, engineering.

Three others are candidates for bachelor of arts degrees. They are Ellen G. Beneman, 109 Lute-man Road, arts and sciences; Robert C. Jones, Box 224, Cresaptown, arts and sciences, and Robert R. Robertson, Box 241, Lonaconing, physical education, recreation and health.

The three Garrett County residents all are candidates for bachelor of science degrees. They are Richard E. Lohr, Friendsville, agriculture; Harry A. Younk, RFD 2, Grantsville, engineering, and Ralph A. Callandrella, Kitzmiller, arts and sciences.

Two of the three Keyser candidates seek doctorates. Bryan E. Shepp, 232 East Main Street, is a candidate for a doctor of philosophy degree in graduate school. Clinton L. Rogers, 197 Fort Avenue, seeks an M.D. degree in medicine. Eugene G. Grossland, RFD 3, is a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in engineering.

Charles W. Creek of Hancock is a candidate for a bachelor of science degree in engineering.

Retiring Parade Marshal Active About 40 Years

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

The well-known song, "I Love a Parade," undoubtedly is one of the old favorites of Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal here for about 40 years, who has decided to step out of the parade picture in Cumberland.

After World War I he began organizing parades and since then has been getting organizations in line for Memorial Day, Labor Day and Armistice Day parades and in recent years Armed Forces Day reviews.

His first recollection of organizing parade was one on Armistice Day 1919 when a local citizens committee held a parade in which "quite a few" veterans home from the war participated.

Out-Of-Town Parades

Mr. Conlon has taken part in out-of-town parades including one in Washington, D.C. in 1922 during a national convention of the Holy Name Society. He was in charge of the Western Maryland paraders and ended up leading 20,000 men who marched in the nation's capital along with sections from all over the country.

He recalls a national convention of the American Legion in 1937 in New York City when he marched as a delegate of Fort Cumberland Post 13. The parade began at 9 a.m. and lasted until 3 a.m. the following day. Sixteen abreast, legionnaires from all over America marched along Fifth Avenue.

On April 4, 1941, during an Army Day observance in Baltimore he was senior officer in the Eighth Battalion of the Maryland State Guard which paraded in that city. One of the highlights of his career was when he marshalled a parade early in the 1920's when General John J. Pershing was among the honored guests here.

Punctuality was one of his qualities and he always had the

Rose Hill Soldier's Monument Unveiled At Ceremonies 65 Years Ago Today

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Editorial Staff

The afternoon was warm and many of the 5,000 spectators stood under shade trees at Rose Hill Cemetery 65 years ago today when the "Soldier's Memorial Monument" was unveiled to the public.

Prior to the unveiling ceremony, a large and imposing procession formed in front of the Grand Army of the Republic Post Hall on Baltimore Street at 2 o'clock and, headed by the Cumberland Concert Band, marched to the cemetery in the following order:

Allegany County Academy cadets; Piccolo drum and bugle corps; Tyler Post GAR; a carriage carrying the orators of the day; The Women's Relief Corps, in carriages, and the different fire companies of the city, in uniform.

Cemetery Program

The program at the cemetery, presided over by C. C. Ball, Commander of Post 5, opened with music by the concert band. An address, "Union Soldiers' Devotion and Heroism," was delivered by Colonel G. W. F. Vernon, late Cole's Maryland Cavalry.

The colonel described in eloquent terms the privations and hardships which the soldiers had to endure, and paid a glowing description to their heroism and great devotion to the noble cause for which they fought.

Following his address, the monument was presented by Barbara Schilling, chairman of the committee of the Woman's Relief Corps, which had the tions given by local citizens.

As the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," the monument was unveiled by Misses Grace Warnick, Florence Kelly, Effie Robertson and Blanch Schilling.

Later in the program an address, "Good Results of the War," was delivered by George L. Wellington, member of Congress. (His son, John L. Wellington lives at 303 Washington Street.)

He said "we have as one of the good results of the war—a united country and one of the most prosperous nations on the face of the globe. No North, no South, no East, no West, but a free and united people hand in hand for the good of the commonwealth."

Graves Decorated

Each soldier's grave was decorated with flowers that day and the solemnity of the exercises was a touching scene. The monument was erected to honor men of the nation who fought for the Union 1861-65.

It is on a triangular plot of ground on the cemetery hill among maple trees which have grown tall during the past years. Those visiting the monument today will find colorful American flags placed at the weather-worn headstones which mark the final resting place of soldiers who paid the supreme sacrifice during the Civil War.

Only A Cow Path

He said the area where Allegany High School now stands was then a mere cow path.

Later in life Mr. Wright worked for 20 years as a shipping clerk at the Cumberland Dry Goods and Notion Company then located on Union Street. From 1934 to 1952 he was employed at the dye house at Amcelle plant.

Herman J. Miller, of 217 Valley Street, local fireman, has a colorful souvenir and official program of the unveiling ceremony.

The program has pictures of high ranking officers who were killed in the war; officials in the cabinet of the Lincoln administration and advertisements of merchants in business that year.

JAMES S. GETTY

DONALD W. MASON

Attorneys Will Speak At Graduation Exercises

James S. Getty, state's attorney for Allegany County and Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, have been named speakers for graduation exercises Thursday and Friday evenings at Oldtown High School and Flintstone High School, respectively.

Mr. Getty will address the 33 seniors at Oldtown at 8 p.m. Thursday and will speak on "The Space Age." Mr. Mason, who will speak to 22 seniors at Flintstone High the following evening at 8 o'clock, has chosen "Imaginative Thinking," as his topic.

Mrs. Richard Winer, member of the Allegany County Board of Education, will present the diplomas at both Oldtown and Flintstone.

Mr. Getty, a native of Lonaconing where he still resides, is a son of Mrs. Gorman E. Getty and the late Dr. Getty. He was graduated from Central High School in 1939 and from Potomac State College in Keyser in 1941.

In 1946 he received his LL.B. degree at graduation exercises at the University of Maryland. From 1943 to 1946 he served in Army Intelligence and was special agent in charge of the State of Virginia.

From 1949 to 1953 he managed the Cumberland office of the Social Security Administration and became assistant state's attorney in 1953. Five years later he was elected state's attorney.

He is married to the former Miss Betty Glover of Keyser and they have two children including a son, James, who graduates this year at Valley High.

Mr. Mason, who was graduated from Fort Hill High School, served in the U.S. Coast Guard and completed his law studies at Washington and Lee University, having begun his law practice here in 1951.

He was former administrative assistant to State Senator Robert B. Kimble at Annapolis for five legislative sessions. In May 1952 he was appointed Trial Magistrate here and served until March 1953 when he resigned to become assistant state's attorney.

Mr. Mason belongs to the Allegany County, Maryland, and American Bar Associations; St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Potomac Lodge 100, AF and AM, Ali Ghan Shrine, Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, Optimist Club, BPO Elks, Lodge 63, Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion and the Cumberland Outdoor Club.

He is married to the former Dorothy Ebert and they have a 15-month-old daughter, Lisa Jane.

Westernport Native Now Directs Program In Korea

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A native of Westernport is having an opportunity this year to serve as a practical ambassador of good will to Korea.

He is Richard G. Patrick son of Mr. and Mrs.

Julian G. Patrick, 310 Maryland Avenue, Westernport. He is chairman of a committee, composed chiefly of Korean electrical engineers, which is setting up a program for the rehabilitation of generation and transmission of electricity in that country.

A graduate of Bruce High School in Westernport, Mr. Patrick attended the University of Maryland one year. He then was transferred by the U.S. Navy to Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., where he was graduated as an electrical engineer in 1945.

Mr. Patrick is a registered professional engineer employed by Commonwealth Associates Inc., Jackson, Mich. He was sent by his company for one year's service in Korea. In his capacity he serves on the United States Overseas Mission.

The work of Mr. Patrick's committee is of major importance because it is attempting to repair the damage to electrical facilities caused by three years of war in that Oriental land.

Mr. Patrick is married to the former Miss Nedra Dawson of Luke. They and their daughter, Carolyn, reside in the United Village near the U.S. Eighth Army Base at Seoul.

The picture of Mr. Patrick and the other members of his inductive coordinating committee appeared in a recent issue of "The Electrical Press," a Korean language paper which Mr. Patrick's parents received in their home in Westernport.

This Korean language paper offered another illustration of the small size of today's world. Another picture in this tabloid size paper was of the radio research laboratory now being developed a little over 100 miles from Cumberland at Sugar Grove, W. Va.

Mr. Patrick's daughter also is lending a hand in this good will program in Korea. A sixth grader in the American School at the Eighth Army Base, she is also a Girl Scout. She and other American Girl Scouts in Korea are planting tree seedlings on Falling Water Mountain near the

West Virginians Hospitalized After Accident

Car Demolished Near Moorefield

Two West Virginians were admitted to Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning with injuries sustained in a one-car accident late Saturday night on U.S. Route 220 about seven miles north of Moorefield.

Loring D. Hefner, 27, owner of the car, sustained a laceration on his chin and complained of pains in his chest. His condition is satisfactory.

Mrs. Rowena Rinker, 31, of Purgittsville, who also was injured, is reported in "satisfactory" condition.

West Virginia State Police, who are still investigating the accident, said they got a call about 11:30 p.m. (EDT). The car, they said, went out of control on a slight curve after the driver had ascended a downgrade.

The auto careened to the right of the highway, went down over an embankment, ripped out three or four railings of a wire fence and apparently turned over before coming to a stop in a field.

Police said the old model car was demolished. It traveled about 250 feet into the field. The two persons were brought here by ambulance.

Cpl. C. G. Hamrick and Trooper Jack Baker, stationed at Moorefield, are investigating the accident which occurred while the auto was headed north toward Purgittsville.

Mrs. G. M. Smith Dies Suddenly In Hospital

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Smith, 48, wife of Morgan Smith, 843 Braddock Road, died yesterday afternoon in Memorial Hospital where she was admitted earlier in the day.

Mrs. Smith, who was active in church and civic affairs, was taken ill about 5 a.m. and died at the hospital at 2 p.m.

A native of Cumberland, she was a daughter of Mrs. Gertrude (Sincell) Matheny and the late Harry Matheny, who was a former Allegany County Commissioner.

Mrs. Smith was past president of the Woman's Civic Club and recently was elected to the club's board of directors. She was a member of Centre Street Methodist Church and was a teacher in the church's Sunday School program.

A graduate of Allegany High School, Mrs. Smith also graduated from Hood College in Frederick. She also was a member of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women and served as co-chairman of the association's "Great Books" group.

Surviving, besides her mother and husband, are a daughter, Marjorie Russell Smith, at home. The body is at the John J. Hafer Chapel of the Hills Mortuary, U. S. Route 40 and Braddock Road, where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Services will be conducted at the funeral home Wednesday at 11 a.m. by Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Wettest May Recorded Here

Cumberland had the wettest May in history according to recollections of Robert Golden, weather observer here, who has been keeping records since 1912.

He said that up until yesterday morning 7.37 inches of rain had fallen. This figure does not include the 29th, 30th and 31st of the month.

Back in 1924, he said, 7.34 inches of precipitation fell in Cumberland.

Rainy miserable weather is forecast for today when the temperature is expected to reach a high in the mid to upper 60s.

Rotary Club To Meet At Amcelle Plant

The Cumberland Rotary will hold its weekly meeting tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. at the administration building of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Fibers Company.

The service club will have dinner at the plant and will tour the facilities.
